SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, unless such seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary relief as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such liability upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor granted permission to land, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien seaman. Clearance may be granted by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to any vessel as a guarantee that any alien seaman on such vessel will be deported as provided herein, upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or the production of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 21. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory, or proceeding to any such place on the high seas, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the sufficient detention of such alien seamen from the United States.

SEC. 36. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory, or departing from the United States for any place outside thereof, shall be responsible for the proper conduct while ashore of any alien seaman employed on board such vessel, and for the payment of the hospital dues and other charges required by law to be collected in connection with the maintenance in hospital of such seaman, and for the expenses of his burial in case of death, and for the deportation of such seaman if he is ordered deported to the country to which he belongs or in which he resided at the time of shipping, and for the payment of the head tax and the cost of his maintenance while en route and for the payment of the immigration fine in case any such seaman is found on board any vessel upon which he arrives in violation of the immigration laws, unless such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall prove to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he could not have prevented the violation of such laws by the exercise of due diligence. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel concerning which there is reason to believe that any violation of the immigration laws has occurred until the Secretary of Labor is satisfied that the provisions of this section will be complied with. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel which has arrived in the United States with any alien seaman on board who has been refused a landing by the Secretary of Labor, until the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel has given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of the head tax and the maintenance and removal of such alien seaman. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel which has arrived in the United States with any alien seaman on board who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service as afflicted with any contagious disease, until the master of such vessel has given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the United States against any expense on account of such alien seaman by reason of such disease. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel which has arrived in the United States with any alien seaman on board who has been certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service as afflicted with any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, until the master of such vessel has given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the United States against any expense on account of such alien seaman by reason of such disease. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the Secretary of Labor as to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every fine, or alien seaman who may be required to be detained on board vessel pursuant to the provisions of this section, shall be a lien upon the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from the payment of which such vessel may be cleared or granted clearance, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located, and the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel shall be personally liable for the amount of such fine. If any such fine is not paid or such alien seaman is not delivered to the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor when required, clearance may be withheld from any vessel owned by such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master until such fine is paid or such alien seaman delivered to the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor, or a bond given to secure the payment of such fine or the delivery of such alien seaman, as required.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds after deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel has left the United States, that the immigration officer or the master of such vessel was grossly negligent in the performance of his duty or connived at the escape of such alien seaman, such vessel may upon the direction of the Secretary of Labor be refused clearance to any port in the United States for a period not to exceed one year. Such refusal of clearance shall not affect the right of the vessel to secure clearance upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

SEC. 6. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the liens received by section 36 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been terminated, and not then unless notice of liability to the administrative fine prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 36 of said act finally been served, the deposit specified in rule 23 has been made.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary illness as may render his removal from the United States at the time impracticable, but the cost of maintenance and treatment of such seaman while so detained shall be paid by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or operator of the vessel on board which he arrived, unless the Secretary of Labor shall otherwise direct. Upon the certification by the Secretary of Labor that any such seaman has been removed from the United States, the cost of maintenance and treatment shall be certified to the Auditor for the Treasury Department for payment out of appropriations for the enforcement of the immigration laws.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall fail to detain on board the vessel any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival (which examination shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who shall fail to detain such seaman on board until such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question or the payment or tender of the penalty, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof thereafter.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not appear upon the subsequent manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States and who shall not within two days after arrival report to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, unless prevented by sickness or injury certified by the medical officer of the vessel, shall be fined $10 for each day he shall remain unreported, but not more than $100 in all.

(c) It shall be the duty of the master or agent of any vessel to report the illness or injury of any alien seaman and the cause thereof before the vessel shall depart from the port, and in case of his death to report the fact, time, and cause thereof, and to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival the certificate of the cause of death issued by the attending physician, if any, or the certificate of the coroner or other official who may have viewed the body after death, or the testimony taken at the inquest relative to the cause and circumstances of death, if any such inquest shall be held, and the certificate of the medical officer of the vessel as to the illness or injury of any alien seaman who shall have been removed therefrom during the period of the vessel's stay in port. Such report shall be in addition to the report required by section 16 of the Act of February 5, 1917, and the penalty prescribed by section 36 of said Act for failure to report the death of an alien seaman shall be applicable to the case of the death of any alien seaman required to be reported by this section.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of vessel in the United States from the foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the alien's country, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those of the said aliens who are destined to the United States, and the intended final destination of each such alien as far as known, which lists shall be verified by the oath of such master or agent and subscribed by him in the form of a certificate at the foot of the last sheet of the list, and shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and every alien who may be ordered on board vessel at any port in the United States, except Canada or Mexico, shall, before such vessel departs from such port, be subjected to such inspection by the immigrant inspector at such port as may be prescribed by regulations made hereunder by the Secretary of Labor, and such vessel shall not depart from such port until such inspection is completed and the master has received from the immigrant inspector in charge a certificate that the names of all aliens employees who were not employed therein at the time of the arrival but who have been so employed as aforesaid, and the names of those who have been found by him upon such inspection to be suffering from any contagious disease, and the names of all aliens who have been allowed to land temporarily under bond, and the amount of such bonds, have been furnished to the master, and that the provisions of this section have been complied with in every particular. Upon the refusal of the master to deliver such certificate, or upon the refusal of any alien to submit to such inspection, such vessel shall not be granted clearance papers until such refusal shall have ceased and such certificate shall have been delivered, or such alien shall have been landed, and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver such certificate, or to detain such alien on board vessel after such certificate has been delivered, he shall be liable to a penalty of $200 for each such alien, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such penalty has been paid or a sufficient sum deposited to cover the same, or a bond given with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, and in case such vessel shall depart without such certificate having been delivered, or such alien detained on board, the master shall be liable to a penalty of $200 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered, or a like penalty for each alien not specified in the lists delivered, but no such penalty shall be remitted or refunded except that imposed for failure to detain an alien on board vessel, and then only upon the certificate of the inspector in charge at the port of arrival that such alien was specially detained for further investigation.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board the vessel arriving in the United States from a place outside foreign contiguous territory, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for the sole purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or because of such temporary necessities as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the multiple departure, or to land in the port of arrival for the purpose of applying for a visa and obtaining a duplicate certificate of identification in lieu of the certificate surrendered, but not for the purpose of entering the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside foreign contiguous territory (except Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone, the islands adjacent thereto, Cuba, and the islands adjacent thereto) shall cause each alien seaman employed on such vessel (other than a bona fide member of the crew who intends to depart with the vessel and has been admitted to the United States solely for the purpose of performing duty as a member of the crew of the vessel and who has been duly registered and has identification papers issued to him by the Secretary of Labor) to be examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, or by a surgeon designated by the Secretary of Labor, before the departure of such vessel from a foreign port for a port of the United States, and shall cause each such alien seaman to be detained on board until such examination has been completed and the master has been given a certificate by the medical officer that no such alien seaman has been found to be suffering from any disease, defect, or condition which will render such alien seaman unable to land in the United States without becoming a public charge, or which will endanger the welfare of the United States if such alien seaman is admitted to the United States. The Secretary of Labor shall prescribe rules governing the examination of alien seamen under this section, and the boarding officer shall report to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival the name of each alien seaman who has been certified by the boarding officer as suffering from any disease, defect, or condition which will render such alien seaman unable to land in the United States without becoming a public charge, and the name of each alien seaman who has been treated for any contagious disease during the period of the vessel's stay in port. The immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall cause each alien seaman certified by the boarding officer as suffering from any such disease, defect, or condition to be detained on board the vessel or at such place or places as may be designated in writing by the immigration officer in charge, pending examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and pending the decision of the immigration officer in charge as to the admissibility of such alien seaman. Such detention shall be at the option of the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel, either on board or at the expense of the vessel while in port, or at a shore station designated by the immigration officer in charge. Such seamen shall be subject to such medical care and treatment as may be necessary, and if removed from the vessel shall be returned thereto or to another vessel owned by the same interests before the vessel departs, unless the immigration officer in charge shall permit such seamen to be landed temporarily for medical treatment. Such seamen shall be subject to the same immigration inspection at the time of their return to the vessel as is provided by the immigration laws for other seamen seeking admission to the United States. Any alien seaman who refuses to be so detained on board the vessel or at the place designated for his detention by the immigration officer in charge, or who departs from such place without permission, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. The cost of maintenance and medical treatment of such alien seamen during detention, and the expenses incident to their removal from the vessel, shall be borne by the owner of the vessel on which they arrived.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section or with any lawful rule or regulation promulgated by the Secretary of Labor in pursuance thereof, or who shall connive or conspire with, or willfully permit any alien seaman to evade the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and in addition shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom any violation of this section occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the penalty or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(c) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. If the Secretary of Labor is unable to procure the transportation for the deportation of any such alien seaman from any foreign port to which he may be taken or returned within one year after the date of the final order of deportation, the master of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States shall be required to return such alien seaman to the country whose government issued the certificate of identity under which he was admitted to the United States, or to the country from which he last came to the United States, or to the country in which he was born, or to the country in which he resided at the time of shipping on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, if such country will receive him, or to any country which will receive him cheaper than the cost of his return to the port of arrival, or to any country which will receive him at the option of the alien seaman. The cost of maintenance of any such alien seaman while in the United States, and the cost of his removal therefrom, shall be borne by the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. Any master who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section, or with any lawful rule or regulation promulgated by the Secretary of Labor in pursuance thereof, or who shall connive or conspire with, or willfully permit any alien seaman to evade the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and in addition shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom any violation of this section occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the penalty or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. If the Secretary of Labor is unable to procure the transportation for the deportation of any such alien seaman from any foreign port to which he may be taken or returned within one year after the date of the final order of deportation, the master of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States shall be required to return such alien seaman to the country whose government issued the certificate of identity under which he was admitted to the United States, or to the country from which he last came to the United States, or to the country in which he was born, or to the country in which he resided at the time of shipping on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, if such country will receive him, or to any country which will receive him cheaper than the cost of his return to the port of arrival, or to any country which will receive him at the option of the alien seaman. The cost of maintenance of any such alien seaman while in the United States, and the cost of his removal therefrom, shall be borne by the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States. Any master who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section, or with any lawful rule or regulation promulgated by the Secretary of Labor in pursuance thereof, or who shall connive or conspire with, or willfully permit any alien seaman to evade the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and in addition shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom any violation of this section occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the penalty or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING ALIEN MANIFEST

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States, according as separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants are required by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also according to geographic distribution as between those whose races or peoples are to be charged to the so-called fourth class, those races or peoples which are not to be charged to any class, and those who are to be charged to the numerical limitations of the several classes; and if they are to be charged to different classes, appropriate steps to a family should appear upon the same manifest sheet when two or more persons are listed.

Column 1 (Last name).—Alphabetical list of surnames or family names of all aliens. The alphabetical order is to be followed in the first letter only.

Column 2 (Given name in full).—The surname should be extended in every case so as to show clearly the full name.

A farm laborer is one who works on a farm for the farm who obtained it.

Agricultural conditions should make this distinction on the immigrant, and correct- tions should be made, if necessary, by inspectors during the personal examination of the alien arrivals.

Column 8 (Nation or people).—This column is to individual and countries the following directions: "Read what language [or, if examples is claimed, more what should be stated]." Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject. country to which immigrant belongs, and country to which. The immigrant may be a citizen of one country and belong to a race or people of another country. For instance, a native of Scotland, of the Hebrew race, is a citizen of Great Britain, but belongs to the Hebrew race or people. The word "France" should not be used to country does not mean "French," but means "Français," pertaining to the people of France. The word "French" should be used to designate the people of France, but not to designate citizens of France, who may be of various races or peoples, such as Basque, Breton, Alsatian, etc. The word "British" should not be used to designate citizens of the British Empire, but should be used to designate the people of England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the seas. The word "American" should not be used to designate citizens of the United States, but should be used to designate the people of the United States. The word "Canadian" should not be used to designate citizens of the Dominion of Canada, but should be used to designate the people of Canada, whether English, French, Scotch, Irish, or other. CENTRAL AMERICAN

"Guatemalan" refers to the people of Central and South America of Spanish descent.

(a) That, upon arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, master, or consignee, or the person in charge of the port or vessel last leaving the United States, except steamers plying to or from contiguous territory, to furnish to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a list or manifest of all the alien seamen employed on such vessel and such list or manifest shall be prepared in the form and manner and contain such information as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe from time to time. Such list or manifest shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners, of not more than 10 aliens to be selected by such immigration officer at the time of inspection or as soon thereafter as practicable, and such immigration officer shall have the right to require the production for his inspection of the certificate of identification issued to each alien seaman pursuant to section 6 hereof, and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of such vessel shall furnish such certificate of identification or the equivalent thereof in lieu of the certificate required by section 6 hereof in the case of any alien seaman failing to produce such certificate of identification. Any alien seaman who refuses to submit to such physical examination before sailing shall be deemed a violator of the provisions of section 6 hereof and shall be punished as provided in section 8 hereof. Any alien seaman who fails to produce such certificate of identification within four months after the date of its issuance shall be deemed a violator of the provisions of section 6 hereof and shall be punished as provided in section 8 hereof, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that the failure to produce such certificate of identification was due to reasons beyond his control and not due to any fault or neglect on his part.

(b) Upon the arrival of any such vessel at a port of the United States the immigration officer in charge at the port shall have the right to go and be conveyed aboard any such vessel, and it shall be the duty of the master or commanding officer of the vessel to facilitate the boarding of such officer and to furnish him with all such information as he may require for the purposes of this Act. Such immigration officer shall have the right to order any alien seaman who is ill, and who in his opinion requires treatment in a hospital, to be sent to a hospital at the expense of the vessel, and any alien seaman who refuses to obey such order may be arrested without warrant and detained until the vessel is ready to depart, and may be taken on board and compelled to proceed to sea in such vessel: Provided, That no alien seaman shall be so detained by the immigration officer for a longer period than forty-eight hours after the vessel shall have been reported and entered at the immigration office of the port unless his further detention is approved by the Secretary of Labor.

Such deposit shall not be required in the case of any alien seaman who shall have been in the employment of the United States Government or of the Panama Railroad Company for a period of not less than one year immediately prior to the departure of such vessel from the United States, and who is employed on such vessel when she departs from the United States.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below will be prepared on blank forms supplied by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector in charge of the port of arrival three hours before the vessel is due to arrive at such port. The master of a vessel is required to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a correct list of all passengers (Form 512) taken on board at any foreign port or place at which the vessel may touch before coming to the port of arrival, and no person will be allowed to land from the vessel until the list has been delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival and the inspection of all persons concluded. The master will be required to make oath to the correctness of the list before the immigration officer at the time of inspection. Any person not mentioned in the list will be detained for special inquiry at the expense of the master of the vessel. Any person who is found to be afflicted with a contagious disease, or who is a polygamist, or who has been convicted of a felony or other infamous crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or who is unable to take care of himself or herself without becoming a public charge, or who is a professional beggar, or who is an anarchist, or who believes in or advocates the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States or of all forms of law, or who disbelieves in or is opposed to organized government, or who advocates or teaches the assassination of public officials, or who is a member of or affiliated with any organization entertaining such views, or who advocates or teaches the unlawful destruction of property, will be excluded from admission into the United States, unless such person is a child under the age of 16 years and is accompanied by one or both parents, in which case the parent or parents will be admitted if not otherwise excluded. Any person who has been excluded from admission and deported, and who may again seek admission within one year from the date of such deportation, will be considered as returning only at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, and may be excluded and deported upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor. Any person who shall aid or assist any alien to enter the United States in violation of this law shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien afflicted with any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, knowing such alien to be afflicted with such disease at the time of embarkation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien who has been excluded and deported, unless such alien shall have received from the Secretary of Labor special permission in writing to reapply for admission, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien for the purpose of prostitution or for any other immoral purpose shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who shall keep, maintain, control, support, or harbor in any house or place for the purpose of prostitution or for any other immoral purpose any alien woman or girl within three years after she shall have entered the United States from any country, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 and by imprisonment not exceeding five years. The Secretary of Labor may order any alien arrested and returned to the country whence he came who shall be found an inmate of or connected with the management of a house of prostitution or assignation or who shall be found to have been such an inmate or connected with such management at any time within three years after such alien shall have entered the United States. Any alien who shall have been arrested and deported once as provided herein, and who shall thereafter return to the United States, shall be deported upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was specially permitted to return by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien who shall be deported as provided herein shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the expenses of the office through which the order of deportation is made, unless the alien shall pay the cost of deportation before the warrant is executed. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the right of any alien to land when the decision is appealed to the Secretary of Labor, but such vessel may be detained at the option of the master upon the giving of a bond in such sum, not exceeding $500 for each alien detained, as may be required by the collector of customs, conditioned upon the payment of the hospital dues and the head tax if such alien shall be finally landed, and upon the further condition that the master will pay the cost of maintenance and support of such alien while detained, and the cost of his deportation if he shall be finally ordered deported. Nothing herein shall be construed to affect the admission of any person otherwise admissible into the United States who was convicted of an offense purely political, or of the offense of being a political exile.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that aliens are being allowed to land in violation of this act, he may, in his discretion, employ such additional inspectors as he may deem necessary to prevent such landing, and shall certify the number employed and the cost thereof to the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall draw his warrant upon the Treasurer of the United States for the payment of the same out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

(d) Every alien arriving at a port of the United States shall be examined by at least two inspection officers. The inspection officers shall have authority to administer oaths and to take and consider evidence touching the right of any alien to enter the United States, and may appoint, at such ports as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, such number of interpreters as may be necessary. Such interpreters shall be subject to the civil service rules. Any alien who shall refuse to be examined before an inspection officer or interpreter or to answer any question touching his right to enter the United States shall be deported. Such examination shall be conducted only at the immigrant station unless for the special convenience of the United States Government it is conducted elsewhere, and shall be completed with all reasonable speed, due regard being had to the expeditious handling of aliens entitled to admission. Immigrant stations shall be provided with such facilities for the detention, examination, and maintenance of aliens pending examination as may be necessary for the proper performance of the functions vested by this act in the Bureau of Immigration. Whenever the Secretary of Labor shall deem it necessary or advisable in order to secure adequate facilities for the detention, examination, and maintenance of aliens pending examination, he may designate as immigrant stations such seaports or places in the United States as he may deem best adapted for the proper performance of the work of the Bureau of Immigration, and may cause notice thereof to be given to masters of vessels, transportation companies, and such other persons as he may deem necessary or proper. Such designations may be changed from time to time as the Secretary of Labor may deem best. Pending the establishment of any immigrant station which may hereafter be designated, the use of any United States quarantine station or any other station or vessel now used for such purposes shall be continued, and the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, designate as immigrant stations any of the stations or vessels now in use for the detention of aliens pending the decision of their cases. The cost of providing such stations, and of their maintenance, and of the salaries and expenses of such officers, clerks, and other employees as may be appointed by the Secretary of Labor, shall be paid out of the appropriation for the enforcement of this act.

(e) It shall be the duty of all transportation companies bringing aliens to any port of the United States to return in the vessel in which they shall arrive, or in another vessel under the same management, any alien who may be excluded from admission to the United States by the immigration officers, such return to be to the port from which such alien last came, or to the country where such alien resides which may be designated by such alien at the time of application for admission. The cost of the maintenance of such excluded alien while in the custody of the transportation company, and the cost of the return of such alien, shall be borne by such company. Any company which shall refuse or neglect to return any such alien, or which shall refuse or neglect to pay the cost of such return, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000, and shall pay all costs and expenses incident to the return of such alien, which may be recovered of such company in any action brought for that purpose in any district in which such company may be found or service made upon its agent. Any company which shall bring any alien afflicted with any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, knowing such alien to be afflicted with such disease at the time of embarkation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien who has been excluded and deported, and who may again seek admission within one year from the date of such deportation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(f) It shall be the duty of the Secretary of Labor, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to establish such regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary and proper to carry this act into effect, and may particularly designate and employ such officers as may be necessary to perform the duties imposed upon them by this act, and may establish such offices, and employ such interpreters and other assistants at such ports, other than the seaports of the United States, as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act. Such officers, clerks, and employees shall perform such duties, keep such records, make such reports, and issue such certificates as may be required by the Secretary of Labor or by the Secretary of the Treasury or Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and shall have power to administer oaths to any witness appearing to testify in respect to the right of any alien to enter, pass through, or reside in the United States, or concerning any matter which may be material or necessary to such inquiry. Any person who shall knowingly make any false statement or false certificate in answer to any question propounded by any officer in the execution of this act, or who shall knowingly make any false entry in any record or other paper prepared in pursuance of the provisions of this act, or who shall knowingly neglect or refuse to make true answer to any question propounded to him by any officer in the execution of this act, or who shall knowingly neglect or refuse to exhibit any record or paper pertaining to the matter of inquiry aforesaid when required so to do by any officer in the execution of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

(g) If any person, after having been excluded and deported or after having been arrested for such exclusion and deportation, shall thereafter enter the United States, or attempt to enter the United States, he shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court, and may be returned to the country whence he came or may be sent to any other country that he may select which is willing to receive him, at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, the cost of such deportation to be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the office through which the order of deportation is made, unless the alien shall pay the cost of deportation before the warrant is executed.

(h) If any person, after having been excluded and deported or after having been arrested for such exclusion and deportation, shall thereafter enter the United States, or attempt to enter the United States, he shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both, at the discretion of the court, and may be returned to the country whence he came or may be sent to any other country that he may select which is willing to receive him, at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, the cost of such deportation to be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the office through which the order of deportation is made, unless the alien shall pay the cost of deportation before the warrant is executed.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of the vessel in the United States from the foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, showing the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those of the said aliens who are destined to the port of arrival; to list separately such aliens as may be allowed to land temporarily, and to report the sickness or death of any such alien on board during the voyage, and the cause thereof, so far as known, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has been left behind, and the cause thereof, and the final destination of any such alien. Such lists shall be open to the visit of the officers of the United States Immigration Service, who shall have the right to board any such vessel at such time as they may deem necessary for the purpose of examining the same and the persons on board thereof, and to muster the crew, and no master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel shall refuse to such officers the facilities necessary for such visit and examination. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such offense, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty or the giving of a bond with sufficient surety therefor, in the discretion of the collector of customs, and the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury shall be final as to the facts upon which the same is assessed: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary illness as the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such alien may certify in the United States to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), and every such alien seaman shall be required to deposit with the Secretary of Labor so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $17,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the adjacent islands, or from any place in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, or from any port or place in the Canal Zone or the Philippine Islands, destined to any port or place in the United States, shall before any alien, other than a seaman, employed on board such vessel shall depart therefrom, deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure, or if there be no such officer at such port, then to the collector of customs, a list or manifest of such alien, containing such particulars as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, and no such alien shall depart or attempt to depart from the United States in violation of any such requirement or of any rule or regulation made by the Secretary of Labor with respect thereto. Upon the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States there shall be delivered to the immigration officer at such port a list or manifest of all aliens employed on board such vessel who have been ordered deported from the United States and who have not left the United States, which list or manifest shall contain such particulars as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or manifest, or deliver a false list or manifest, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board any alien when ordered by the Secretary of Labor, or any person who shall refuse or fail to deliver any such alien to the immigration officer at the time of departure of such vessel from a port of the United States, or who shall bring or cause to be brought into the United States any such alien, or who shall refuse or fail to comply with any such rule or regulation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien in respect of whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien arriving at a port of the United States from any foreign port or place, including an alien in transit through the United States, and every alien departing from the United States, shall be immediately inspected by one or more of the immigration officers at the port of arrival or departure or at such other place as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, except that in cases deemed by him to be of such character as to require special inquiry the Secretary of Labor may order such special inquiry to be conducted anywhere within the United States. The Secretary of Labor may enter into contracts with any State or Territory or political subdivision thereof, or with the authorities of any city, for the detention, maintenance, and support of aliens who are liable to become a public charge, or who are sick, or infirm, and may pay the cost of such detention, maintenance, and support out of moneys appropriated for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act. Such aliens may be taken to such places of detention, maintained either by the Government or by such State, Territory, city, or political subdivision, as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be subject to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Such aliens may be transported within the United States, in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor and under such regulations as he may prescribe, to the place of their destination, whether such destination be a port of entry or not, and may be detained for a period not exceeding two years from the date of their entry into the United States, if in the opinion of the Secretary of Labor such detention is necessary to carry out the purposes of this Act. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to require, or authorize the admission to the United States of any alien who shall be certified by the proper examining surgeon to be afflicted with tuberculosis in any form or with a dangerous contagious disease, if such alien has been living within the United States for five years or more prior to the time of such certification, and the existence of such disease prior to the entry of such alien shall not be ground for deportation unless it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that the said alien had actual knowledge of the existence of such disease prior to his entry into the United States, and that he came in collusion with one coming for the purpose of inducing him to enter for such purpose: Provided, That the provisions of this subdivision relating to the deportation of aliens who become public charges from causes existing prior to their entry to the United States shall not apply to aliens who have been naturalized for five years or more prior to the time such cause for deportation arises.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall find that deportation of any alien arriving on any vessel on which he arrives would cause undue hardship to such alien owing to the fact that such alien is afflicted with a contagious disease which is curable, and that such alien is a person of good character and is able to furnish security, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to enter the United States upon the deposit of such sum of money as he shall require, not exceeding $250, to insure the proper care and treatment of such alien and his departure from the United States when required by the Secretary of Labor. Such deposit may be remitted or refunded, in whole or in part, upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor that the person who made such deposit has complied with the conditions upon which such deposit was received.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be left behind by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or deport alien seaman by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien owing to the fact that such alien is afflicted with a contagious disease which is curable, and that such alien is a person of good character and is able to furnish security, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 2. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the fees required by section 32 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been tendered, and not then unless notice of liability to the administrative fine prescribed by said section 01 to fund prescribed by section 32 of said act, have been satisfied, and the deposit specified in rule 23 has been made.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of such arrival has inspected such seamen (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners). Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be left behind by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or deport alien seaman by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien owing to the fact that such alien is afflicted with a contagious disease which is curable, and that such alien is a person of good character and is able to furnish security, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector stationed at the port of arrival, and in the case of arrivals at seaports of Alaska from the west coast of Mexico (from 48° north latitude) and not be required on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival. "Port" means a seaport or a location to which seagoing vessels may proceed from the west.

The list of crew to be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival must be made out in the order of the numbers assigned to the various pages, and the individuals listed thereon must be numbered consecutively, commencing with number 1 and continuing to the end of the list. Each member of the crew, except persons employed on board vessels while plying between ports or places in the United States and those in contiguous territory not separated by the sea, and except persons employed exclusively in the service of the vessel while in port, must be entered on the list, and the entries must be in the English language. Each entry must show the full name of the person entered, his nationality, last foreign port or place from which he came to the vessel, the capacity in which he is employed, whether he has been in the United States previously, and if so how long, whether he intends to return to his foreign home, his age, sex, and race, and the number of pieces of baggage belonging to him. Any member of the crew who is detained on board or at a station by the immigration officer at the port of arrival must be accounted for in the list. Any member of the crew who has been left behind in a foreign port or place must be accounted for by a statement in writing, stating the reasons for failure to produce the person. Any change, addition, or correction in the list after the vessel has been admitted to entry must be noted thereon by the master or person in charge, and verified by his oath before the immigration officer at the port of first arrival.

SEC. 28. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, accompanied by such members of the crew as may be required, to appear with the list of the crew before the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, and truthfully answer, to the best of his knowledge and belief, all questions touching the right of any person on board to enter the United States, and exhibit his certificate, if any, and his passport, if required by the Secretary of Labor, viséed by the consular officer of the United States at the port or place from which the vessel sailed, and produce for the inspection of the immigrant inspector each person on board the vessel, and furnish information in relation to the right of any person to enter the United States, as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. The master shall also deliver to the immigrant inspector at the time of inspection the list of crew, and shall report the name of each person who shall have died on board during the voyage, and the cause of death, and shall produce the certificate of death, if any, and shall report the name of each person who shall have been born on board during the voyage, and such other facts in relation to births and deaths on board as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Any master who shall refuse to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, other than Canada or Mexico, or any person who shall knowingly and willfully refuse to obey any lawful requirement of the Secretary of Labor made pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who shall willfully conceal, or attempt to conceal, any alien on board such vessel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerned, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any such fine may be collected by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States and credited to the appropriation current at the time of collection for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture, and equipment, may be libeled therefor in any district court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which she may arrive or depart, and may be seized and detained by any officer of customs or immigration authorized so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or by any person authorized by the Secretary of Labor so to do, and shall be delivered to the master or owner of such vessel upon the payment of the fine or the execution of a bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by the court, conditioned for the payment of such fine, or upon the execution of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien arriving at a seaport of the United States from any foreign port or place, or at a seaport in the United States from any place outside thereof, who shall not appear upon the outward manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from such foreign port or place, or who shall not be found upon examination by the immigrant inspector to be entitled to enter the United States under all the laws applicable thereto, shall be detained on board or at the station of the immigrant inspector at the option of the master of the vessel upon which such alien arrived, pending a determination of the question of the right of such alien to enter the United States. Such determination shall be made within the period of time required by section 16 of the Act of February 5, 1917, unless such period of time be extended in the case of any alien for a period not exceeding one hundred and twenty hours in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor. Pending such determination, the master shall be responsible for the safekeeping of such alien and shall not permit him to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or hospital care, or pending departure, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the enforcement of this section, and shall be responsible for the payment of any expenses incurred for the maintenance of such alien while detained on board or at such station, and for his removal to the country whence he came, or to the country from which the vessel sailed which brought him to the United States, or to such other country as may be designated by the alien and which will receive him, such removal to be accomplished within one year after the date of the final determination of the case, unless the Secretary of Labor shall extend the time for good cause shown. Such expenses shall be a lien against the vessel, which may be enforced by libel filed by the United States attorney in the district court of the United States in which the vessel may be found. Clearance shall not be granted the vessel until the lien created by section 36 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been terminated, or sufficient bonds to cover such lien have been given.

SEC. 10. SEC. 36. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, other than Canada or Mexico, or any person who shall knowingly and willfully refuse to obey any lawful requirement of the Secretary of Labor made pursuant to the provisions of this section, or who shall willfully conceal, or attempt to conceal, any alien on board such vessel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerned, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any such fine may be collected by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States and credited to the appropriation current at the time of collection for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture, and equipment, may be libeled therefor in any district court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which she may arrive or depart, and may be seized and detained by any officer of customs or immigration authorized so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or by any person authorized by the Secretary of Labor so to do, and shall be paid to the collector of customs or the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $2.00 for each alien concerned, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any such vessel shall be cleared in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

Such determination shall be made within the period of time required by section 16 of the Act of February 5, 1917, unless such period of time be extended in the case of any alien for a period not exceeding one hundred and twenty hours in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, master, agent, consignee, or agent of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall fail to detain on board such alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of debarkation shall have granted such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who shall fail to detain such seaman on board such vessel until such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer to the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the conclusion immediately of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, to land, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport such alien seaman as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of desertion or fraudulent entry by such alien seaman, and such vessel shall thereafter be liable to the payment of the fine provided for in subdivision (a).

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall find after deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived that such vessel could have touched at such seaman's country of origin or place of residence without unreasonable deviation from her course, and that the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel refused or neglected to furnish such seaman a passage thereto, or unreasonably delayed the departure of such seaman, or if the Secretary of Labor finds that such vessel could have furnished such seaman with employment in the usual employment of seamen on such vessel, and that the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel refused or neglected to ship such seaman, or if the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel refused or neglected to comply with the request of the Secretary of Labor to ship such seaman, such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 6. Clearance shall not be withheld from a vessel until the time prescribed by section 36 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been fulfilled, and not then unless notice of inability to the administrative time prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 36 of said Act shall not have been served, the deposit specified in rule 23 has been made.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively examined or expected to be found in the ship's company: or if there be no such list or part thereof, then the master shall report the fact, and shall not be entitled to land in the United States, except temporarily for such examination as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of the vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which the said alien had illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with the information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all aliens employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of the departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to fill the vacancies of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the said lists of such alien employees, respectively, or so to report such cases of desertion or fraudulent, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall, if required by the Secretary of Labor, pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above provided: And no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and, in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid: nor shall such fine be remitted or refunded: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of North America, adjacent islands, Panama, or Cuba, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detainment on board such vessel, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory of North America to obtain on board such vessel such inspection as may be required by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board such vessel until the immigration officer or the medical examiner has personally inspected such seaman (which inspection to be made as soon as practicable after the vessel is docked), or who fails to detain on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has granted such seaman a permit to land, or who fails to report the illness or injury of any seaman or the presence on board of any sick person, or who fails to deliver to the Secretary of Labor so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel in the port of arrival and not to undertake to land in the United States any foreign seaman, except a master or other member of the crew in charge of the vessel, who is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or upon it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of entry a manifest containing such information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor concerning each alien seaman employed on such vessel and each alien who intends to land in the United States, except temporarily and solely in connection with the operation of such vessel, and such other information relative to such alien seamen as the Secretary of Labor shall prescribe. Such manifest shall be in such form and shall be verified by the oath of such master, agent, consignee, or owner, or by the oath of the chief officer or the purser of such vessel, and shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of entry before any such alien seaman shall be allowed to land from such vessel. Any such alien seaman who lands from any such vessel at any port of entry in violation of this section shall be taken into custody upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor and deported in the manner provided by law, unless such seaman is admitted by the Secretary of Labor in his discretion, for the period of the vessel's stay in port or for a period not exceeding four months, subject to such regulations as he may prescribe, and unless a bond is given in such sum not exceeding $500 as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned for the payment of the tax imposed by this section in case such seaman shall remain in the United States for a longer period than that for which he is admitted. Any such seaman who is admitted into the United States shall be deported as provided in this section in like manner as if he had entered at the port at which he last arrived before entering the United States, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he has become a bona fide resident of the United States and that his departure therefrom would result in serious loss to him, and solely by reason of circumstances arising after his last arrival from a foreign port. Upon the deportation of any such seaman who was in the employ of the vessel at the time of his arrival and who has been required to pay the tax imposed by this section, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall be entitled to recover the amount of said tax from the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel on which such seaman shall thereafter arrive in the United States. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be deported shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such seaman, to be recovered by action in any district court of the United States within the district in which such vessel may arrive. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question or the payment of the penalty. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, remit any such penalty or any part thereof.

(a) If the master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel fails to deport any alien seaman employed on board thereof when required so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or fails to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a complete list of the alien seamen employed on board such vessel, as required by this section, or fails to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival any such alien seaman, or any such seaman who has been granted shore leave, or who has been detained on board for examination by the immigrant inspector, or fails to report the illness or injury of any such seaman, or his departure by reason of death, desertion, or otherwise, or fails to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival any such seaman who has been left behind at a foreign port, such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question or the payment of the penalty. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, remit any such penalty or any part thereof.

(b) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave under the provisions of this section shall be deported in the same manner as provided in the case of other aliens ordered deported from the United States, upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor that deportation of such alien seaman has been duly ordered. Deportation of such alien seamen shall be a charge against the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor in the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such alien seaman who shall be ordered deported and who shall not be granted shore leave, but shall be detained on board the vessel on which he arrived, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been granted shore leave. Any such alien seaman who shall be deported shall be deported to the country to which he belongs, or in which he resided at the time he last embarked at a foreign port for the United States, or to such other country as may be willing to receive him. Such deportation shall be at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor in the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such alien seaman who shall be deported shall be deported to the country to which he belongs, or in which he resided at the time he last embarked at a foreign port for the United States, or to such other country as may be willing to receive him. Such deportation shall be at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor in the enforcement of the immigration laws.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

14—1340

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 7. Clearance shall not be refused any vessel until the pier required by section 35 of the Act of February 2, 1917, have been [illegible] and not then unless notice of complaint to the administrative [illegible] prescribed by section 32 of said Act, shall have been received, and the deficiency specified in such notice shall not have been made.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MAY 26, 1924

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such conditions relevant, shall be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and unless a bond in the sum of $500 for each alien seaman is given by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel in such form and with such sureties as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned that upon the departure of such alien seaman from the United States he will pay the cost of his maintenance while in the United States and the cost of his deportation if deportation is required by any law or regulation made in pursuance thereof, unless such alien seaman shall be duly discharged in the port of arrival, and that he will not become a public charge. Such bond shall not be required for any seaman who is admitted solely for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain any alien seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave under the provisions of this section shall be deported in the same manner as provided in the case of other aliens ordered deported from the United States, upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor that deportation of such alien seaman has been duly ordered. Deportation of such alien seamen shall be a charge against the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor in the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such alien seaman who shall be ordered deported and who shall not be granted shore leave, but shall be detained on board the vessel on which he arrived, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been granted shore leave. Any such alien seaman who shall be deported shall be deported to the country to which he belongs, or in which he resided at the time he last embarked at a foreign port for the United States, or to such other country as may be willing to receive him. Such deportation shall be at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor in the enforcement of the immigration laws.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel to deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel and showing the last permanent home of each such alien, and such other information as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of any such vessel it shall be the duty of each owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with such information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of each owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of the departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired on and discharged, and of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the lists required, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall, if required by the Secretary of Labor, pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien as to whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the contiguous territory of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien seaman on such vessel.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all persons employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the crew's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or entered, and the capacity in which each person named therein is to act during the period the vessel is in port: to which lists shall be added the names of all persons who may be employed in such capacity at any port or place during the progress of the voyage, and before the departure of the vessel from such port or place, lists containing the names of all persons employed as aforesaid, and the duties in which they were severally employed, and the cause of the termination of such employment, which lists shall be certified to be correct by the master or commander of the vessel, and the immigration officer shall be furnished from the vessel, within a reasonable time after the arrival of the vessel at the port, with such information as he may require in addition to the facts contained in the lists of passengers and crew, and shall have the right to examine the master, officers, crew, passengers, and cargo of such vessel, and the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel shall furnish such information in relation thereto and render such assistance as may be required by the immigration officer in charge of the port, and any master, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel who refuses to furnish such information or render such assistance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 37. That upon the certification by the Secretary of Labor, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to the proper diplomatic or consular officer of the United States at any foreign port, that the permit system provided for in section 10 of this Act is in operation at such port, and that sufficient facilities are there afforded for the execution of the provisions of section 16 of this Act relating to the certification of aliens destined to the United States, and the application of such provisions to such aliens at such port, it shall be unlawful for any alien to embark for the United States from any foreign port or place without having first obtained a permit for such purpose from the proper diplomatic or consular officer of the United States at such port or place, and such permit shall be issued only upon the production by such alien of such unexpired passport or other document as may be required by section 4 of this Act, and of a certificate from a medical officer of the United States at such port or place, or other physician designated by the consular officer, that such alien has been examined in accordance with the provisions of section 16 of this Act, and that he is not affected with any of the physical or mental defects or diseases specified in section 16 of this Act as excluding aliens from admission into the United States, except that upon the certification by the Secretary of Labor to the Secretary of State that provision has been made for the travel of any such alien through Canada or Mexico, and his admission to the United States at a designated port of entry, the permit may be issued to such alien at such Canadian or Mexican port: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the certification by the Secretary of State in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa.

SEC. 38. That the Secretary of Labor shall have power and is hereby required to make all rules and prescribe all forms and regulations necessary for the administration of the provisions of this Act, and to appoint such inspectors, clerks, and other employees as may be required for the execution, by the proper officers, of the provisions of this Act, and he may confer upon any such officer the power to administer oaths to any person or persons making any affidavit required to be taken under the provisions of this Act. The Secretary of Labor may delegate to any such officer the power conferred upon him by this section, except that power of review over the decisions of boards of special inquiry.

SEC. 39. That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, establish subports of entry in the United States, in addition to those designated by law, at such seaports, railroad stations on the borders of foreign contiguous territory, and other places as he may deem necessary for the proper administration of this Act, and may detail or assign such officers of the United States Government as may be necessary to such subports of entry from time to time.

SEC. 40. That the Secretary of Labor shall have the power, in his discretion, to refuse admission into the United States to any alien brought in good faith by any person, transportation company, or other carrier to a port of the United States for the sole purpose of saving the life of such alien, but in such cases the cost of the maintenance of such alien while in the United States and of his return, if he is returned, shall be paid by the person, transportation company, or other carrier bringing him to the United States.

SEC. 41. That the Secretary of Labor shall have the power, in his discretion, to waive the application of the provisions of section 16 of this Act to any alien who has been lawfully admitted to the United States and who shall temporarily proceed abroad voluntarily or under order of deportation, and who is returning to an unrelinquished United States domicile within a period of four years: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to any person who shall have been convicted of or admits the commission of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude prior to his departure from the United States.

SEC. 42. That the Secretary of Labor shall have the power, in his discretion, to permit any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, other than a seaman employed on board a vessel of war of the United States, to enter the United States temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the minimum period necessary for such treatment, notwithstanding the fact that such seaman may be destined to the United States, or may intend to land therein, or may be unable to comply with any other requirement of this Act relative to the admission of aliens: Provided, That a bond in such amount as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $500 in any case, with sufficient sureties approved by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned that such seaman will depart from the United States within the period for which he is granted such temporary permission, and will not become a public charge, shall be given as a guaranty that the conditions of such bond shall be performed: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the requirement of a bond in the case of any alien seaman who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa.

SEC. 43. That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, refuse admission into the United States to any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, but such alien seaman may be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the minimum period necessary for such treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the shipping or discharging, bona fide replacement, or transfer to another vessel in the same port of such alien seaman employed on such vessel, and the decision of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall be subject to review only upon the certificate of the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at such port that such alien seaman is suffering from a communicable disease specified in section 16 of this Act, or that such alien seaman is otherwise clearly incapacitated for the performance of his duties by reason of physical or mental disability, and the decision of the Secretary of Labor thereon shall be final: Provided, That any alien seaman who has been granted a temporary permit to enter the United States solely for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or who has been granted a temporary permit to enter the United States solely for the purpose of performing labor, and who remains in the United States for a longer period than is allowed by the terms of such permit, or any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States on board the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of this Act to the country to which he belongs or from which he came to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be satisfied that such alien seaman could not obtain the permit herein provided for or leave the United States within the period specified, or that he is unable to pay the expenses of his deportation, and in lieu thereof the Secretary of Labor may cause such alien seaman to be maintained in a hospital, or otherwise, and may cause his deportation to be effected when practicable. The cost of maintenance of such alien seaman and of his deportation, if deported, shall be paid out of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall come to the United States in violation of this Act, or who shall remain in the United States for a longer time than permitted under this Act or any rule or regulation made in pursuance thereof, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of this Act to the country to which he belongs or from which he came to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be satisfied that such alien seaman could not obtain the permit herein provided for or leave the United States within the period specified, or that he is unable to pay the expenses of his deportation, and in lieu thereof the Secretary of Labor may cause such alien seaman to be maintained in a hospital, or otherwise, and may cause his deportation to be effected when practicable. The cost of maintenance of such alien seaman and of his deportation, if deported, shall be paid out of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel cannot sail with such seaman on board within a period of thirty days after the date of such finding, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel shall pay to the Secretary of Labor the sum of $10 for each day in excess of such thirty days that such seaman remains on board such vessel, which sum may be collected by the Secretary of Labor by suit if necessary, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance until such sum is paid or sufficient security therefor given to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that any seaman who has been temporarily permitted to land has remained in the United States for a longer period than that for which he was granted permission, or has failed to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of this section by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship, such seaman may be granted a clearance by the immigration officer in charge of the port, but such seaman shall not be entitled to a clearance from any other port or place in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the shipping or discharging, bona fide replacement, or transfer to another vessel in the same port of such alien seaman employed on such vessel, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such alien seaman has been paid or has sufficient funds to pay the wages found due him by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, and the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel has been notified by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such alien seaman has been paid or has sufficient funds to pay the wages found due him, and has been granted a certificate by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that such certificate has been issued, and the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel has been notified

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes or additions required by section 28 of the Act of February 5, 1917, must be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port. When an alternate address is a "workhouse," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 28. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing any alien to the United States to deliver to the immigrant inspectors at the port of arrival a list or manifest containing the name of all aliens who may be found on board such vessel, stating the nationality, last residence, and destination of each alien who may be brought in such vessel, and such other information regarding each alien as may be required by the Secretary of Labor and by the boards of special inquiry hereinafter provided for. Such list or manifest shall be prepared and delivered in such form and upon such blanks as may be furnished by the Secretary of Labor, and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall subscribe and verify the same by his oath administered by any officer of the United States authorized to administer oaths to immigrants. Such officer shall thereupon certify upon such list or manifest the name of the port at which the same was delivered to him. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel who shall refuse to deliver such list or manifest, or who shall refuse to subscribe and verify the same, or who shall refuse to deliver to the proper immigrant inspector any such list or manifest which is complete and correct in accordance with the requirements of this section to the best of his knowledge and belief, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for a term of not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Such list or manifest shall be delivered by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel before any of the passengers shall be landed therefrom, except in such cases as may be provided for by special rules or regulations made by the Secretary of Labor. Upon the refusal of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel to deliver such list or manifest, or upon the refusal of any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to subscribe and verify the same, or upon the refusal of any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to deliver to the proper immigrant inspector a complete and correct list or manifest in accordance with the requirements of this section, such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above required: Provided, That clearance shall not be withheld from any vessel by reason of the failure of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to deliver the list or manifest required by this section in the case of any alien who may have been a member of the crew employed on such vessel and who is destined to some foreign port: Provided further, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

(a) Every such fine and penalty shall be a lien upon the vessel on which the alien was brought into the United States, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located, and may be seized and detained by order of any district judge or any collector of customs until discharged by bond or decree of such court, or until released by order of the Secretary of Labor. Such proceedings shall conform as nearly as may be to proceedings in admiralty, and may be brought in the name of the United States or of any informer who may sue for the same. It shall be the duty of the United States attorney to whom the Secretary of Labor shall report any violation of this section to cause the proper proceedings to be commenced for the recovery of the fines, penalties, and forfeitures herein provided for. One-half of the net amount recovered shall be paid to the informer and the remainder into the Treasury of the United States.

(b) Every such fine and penalty shall be a personal debt of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who shall violate any of the provisions of this section, and suit for the recovery thereof may be brought in the name of the United States in any district in which such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer may be found.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall be satisfied that any fine or penalty imposed or any bond given under the provisions of this section ought to be remitted, mitigated, or returned, he may cause the same to be done, and his decision in the premises shall be final.

SEC. 29. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the alternate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every such fine and penalty shall not attach upon the conveyance mentioned of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be remitted by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel is detained, would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 6. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the fines required by section 28 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been transmitted, and not then unless notice of liability to the administrative fine prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 30 of said Act, namely, deposit specified in rule 23 has been made.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

VALEN SEAMEN

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MAY 28, 1934

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has been employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of the act of the master or owner of the vessel in discharging him from the vessel, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the multiple deportation of such alien seamen from the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada or Mexico) shall cause each alien seaman employed on such vessel (while in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), to be inspected by an immigration officer at the port of arrival, and no such alien seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States from such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port or such other place as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor shall have inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), and certified in writing that such inspection or so much thereof as may be deemed necessary by the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall have been completed. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or who shall depart from the United States without having been inspected by an immigration officer, or who departs from a place outside thereof, or from any place in the United States other than a port at which he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deposit or secure a fine of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, or the employment of such alien seaman on board any vessel, is a menace to the health or safety of persons or property in the United States, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be deducted from the wages of such alien seaman by such vessel unless such alien seaman has been given a reasonable opportunity to present his case before the Secretary of Labor and the decision of the Secretary of Labor is rendered in accordance therewith. Such decision shall be final as to the facts upon which it is based. Pending such decision, such alien seaman shall be detained on board the vessel or at such place as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the deportation of such alien seaman from the United States.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States under the provisions of section 30 of the Act of February 5, 1917, have been duly admitted, and not taken outside contrary to the regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the enforcement of such section, or unless such alien seaman shall have been lawfully granted permission to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of stress of weather, or other cause beyond his control, during the period the vessel remains in port, or unless such alien seaman shall have been granted (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), a landing card by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, or shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor, or such officer in charge at the port as the Secretary of Labor may designate for the purpose, a conditional permit to land temporarily under bond, in such manner, and for such time, as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, or unless such alien seaman has been granted by the Secretary of Labor, upon the recommendation of the Board of Special Inquiry, the privilege of passing in transit through the United States, or unless such alien seaman has been granted by the Secretary of Labor, upon the recommendation of the Board of Special Inquiry, the privilege of proceeding to the United States solely for the purpose of entering a vessel for the purpose of departing therefrom, or has been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to depart from the United States within such time as he may designate, and has departed therefrom within the time designated.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory or adjacent islands to which the provisions of section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, relating to the collection of a tax of $8 from each alien entering the United States, are extended, shall be primarily liable for any tax imposed under the provisions of such section 2 upon any alien who shall land in the United States from such vessel, unless such alien shall have been duly admitted for permanent residence therein or shall have been in possession of a valid immigration visa and otherwise admissible, and shall have been granted by the immigration officer at the port of arrival a landing card therefor, or shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to enter the United States without such visa, or shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to depart from the United States within such time as he may designate, and shall have departed therefrom within the time designated.

(b) Every alien seaman, other than an alien crewman specified in subdivision (c) hereof, who shall be employed on board any vessel at any port of the United States and who intends to depart from the United States temporarily and to return to the United States in the employment of any vessel operated in the service of steam vessels, shall, before such vessel departs from the port at which she then is, deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient to pay the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, unless such seaman is duly registered and has been previously landed in the United States and has in his possession a certificate showing such registry and landing, or unless such seaman has been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to depart from the United States without the deposit required by this subdivision, or unless such seaman is a member of a crew who are destined to a vessel in foreign trade at a port at which the vessel is to call before sailing for the United States, or unless such seaman is employed on a vessel making regular trips to ports in foreign contiguous territory and returning within a period of four months from the date of sailing, and has been duly registered and has in his possession a certificate showing such registry and landing. Upon the return of such seaman to the United States the tax deposited by him shall be refunded to him, or the bond given by him shall be canceled, if he is then found entitled to admission and is not subject to the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917. Upon the failure of such seaman to return to the United States and to report to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $17,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fund, or while the fund remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such additional sum with the collector of customs or the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 2. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 2a. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel to report the name and number of all members of the crew, the capacity in which each is employed, the nationality, last permanent residence, and intended permanent residence of each alien member of the crew, the port at which each such alien member of the crew first embarked for the United States, and the vessel, railway, or other conveyance by which each such alien member of the crew expects to depart from the United States, and such information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor concerning the identity and status of each such alien member of the crew, and shall make oath to the correctness of the information furnished by him in respect to each and every alien member of the crew. Such report shall be made to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or if there be no such inspector at such port, then to the collector of customs, or to such other officer as the Secretary of Labor may designate for the purpose, and no member of the crew shall be permitted to land from such vessel until the inspection officer in charge at the port shall have granted to such member of the crew a landing card, duly signed by him, stating that such member of the crew has been duly reported and inspected and admitted to landing in the United States, but such inspection officer may withhold such landing card in the case of any alien member of the crew who is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be sufficient to exclude such alien from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory or adjacent islands, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of stress of weather, or other cause beyond his control, during the period the vessel remains in port, or unless such alien seaman shall have been granted (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), a landing card by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, or shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor, upon the recommendation of the Board of Special Inquiry, the privilege of passing in transit through the United States, or unless such alien seaman has been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to enter the United States without such visa, or shall have been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to depart from the United States within such time as he may designate, and has departed therefrom within the time designated.

(b) Every alien seaman, other than an alien crewman specified in subdivision (c) hereof, who shall be employed on board any vessel at any port of the United States and who intends to depart from the United States temporarily and to return to the United States in the employment of any vessel operated in the service of steam vessels, shall, before such vessel departs from the port at which she then is, deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient to pay the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, unless such seaman is duly registered and has been previously landed in the United States and has in his possession a certificate showing such registry and landing, or unless such seaman has been granted by the Secretary of Labor the right to depart from the United States without the deposit required by this subdivision, or unless such seaman is a member of a crew who are destined to a vessel in foreign trade at a port at which the vessel is to call before sailing for the United States, or unless such seaman is employed on a vessel making regular trips to ports in foreign contiguous territory and returning within a period of four months from the date of sailing, and has been duly registered and has in his possession a certificate showing such registry and landing. Upon the return of such seaman to the United States the tax deposited by him shall be refunded to him, or the bond given by him shall be canceled, if he is then found entitled to admission and is not subject to the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917. (c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel may be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING ALIEN MANIFESTS

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States, recording on separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants, as defined by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also recording on separate manifests those aliens traveling in the third class and the so-called tourist class, whose visas bear the initials of Technical Advisers, and those whose visas do not bear such initials. The names of all members of a family shall appear upon the same manifest sheet when they travel in the same class; and if they travel in different classes, appropriate cross references should be made on the sheets on which the respective names are listed.

Column 2 (Head-tax status).—Steamship lines should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 4 (Age).—The answer in this column should be expressed in years or months, the latter applying only to those under 1 year of age.

Column 5 (Sex).—The entry should be either M (male) or F (female).

Column 6 (Married or single).—The answer should be M (married), S (single), Wd (widowed), or D (divorced).

Column 7 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as accurately as possible the occupation, trade, or profession of each alien arrival, as, for example: Civil engineer, stationary engineer, locomotive engineer, mining engineer, brass polisher, steel polisher, iron molder, wood turner, etc., and not simply as engineer, polisher, molder, turner, or other indefinite designations.

A distinction should be made between farmers and farm laborers, regardless of the amount of money shown, as follows:

A farmer is one who operates a farm, either for himself or for others.

A farm laborer is one who works on a farm for the man who operates it.

Steamship companies should make this distinction on the manifests, and corrections should be made, if necessary, by inspectors and registry clerks during the personal examination of alien arrivals.

Column 8 (Able to read and write).—This column is subdivided and contains the following question: "Read what language [or, if exemption is claimed, upon what ground]." In answering this question the language or dialect the alien is able to read should be stated. If alien is unable to read and claims exemption from the reading requirement, the ground for such exemption should be given.

Column 9 (Nationality). Question 9 should be construed to mean the country of which alien is a citizen or subject.

Column 10 (Race or people).—See list of races printed on back of this sheet. The entry should show the race or people as given in said list.

Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject, country of last permanent residence, and country of birth, and manifests should be carefully revised by inspectors and registry clerks in this regard. For instance, "France" appearing under the head of country does not mean "French" by race or people, and, similarly "French" appearing under the head of race or people does not mean "France" by country. An Irish, German, or Hebrew alien by race might properly come under the heading of England, Switzerland, or any other country. In this connection the following distinctions should be especially observed:

CUBAN

The term "Cuban" refers to the Cuban people (not Negroes).

WEST INDIAN

"West Indian" refers to the people of the West Indies other than either Cubans or Negroes.

SPANISH AMERICAN

"Spanish American" refers to the people of Central and South America of Spanish descent.

AFRICAN (BLACK)

"African (black)" refers to the African Negro, whether coming from Cuba or other islands of the West Indies, North or South America, Europe, or Africa. Any alien with admixture of blood of the African Negro should be classified under this heading.

ITALIAN (NORTH)

The people who are native to the basin of the River Po in northern Italy (i. e., compartments of Piedmont, Lombardy, Venetia, and Emelia) and their descendants, whether residing in Italy, Switzerland, Austria, or any other country, should be classed as "Italian (north)." Most of these people speak a Gallic dialect of the Italian language.

ITALIAN (SOUTH)

The people who are native to that portion of Italy south of the basin of the River Po (i. e., compartments of Liguria, Tuscany, the Marches, Umbria, Rome, the Abruzzi and Molise, Campania, Apulia, Basilicata, Calabria, Sicily, and Sardinia) and their descendants should be classed as "Italian (south)."

Column 11 (Place of birth).—The State, Province, or District of birth should be shown in addition to the city or town.

Column 12 (Serial number of document presented).—Prefix serial number of document with abbreviation "QIV," "NQIV," "PV," or "RP," as appropriate, to designate whether it is Quota Immigration Visa, Nonquota Immigration Visa, Passport Visa, or Reentry Permit; and also state section of the Immigration Act of 1924 involved, as Section 4 (a).

Column 13.—This question has reference to the place and date of issue of the document described in column 12, and is self-explanatory.

Column 14 (Verifications of landing, etc.).—Steamship lines should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 15 (Last permanent residence).—Actual or an intended residence of one year shall constitute permanent residence. The last country in which alien resided with the intention of remaining one year or more shall be the last permanent residence regardless of length of actual residence therein. The entries in column 15 should show the country, city or town, state, province, or district of last permanent residence. It is important for statistical purposes that steamship companies accurately show country of last permanent residence independent of country of temporary residence, country of birth, nationality, or race.

Country of last permanent residence of aliens who are permanent residents of the United States and are returning from a visit abroad should be recorded "United States."

Column 17 (Name and complete address of nearest relative or friend in country whence alien came).—The entry should give name, exact relationship, and complete address of such relative. If no such relative living, give name and address of friend. If no such relative or friend living in country whence alien came, give name and address of relative or friend in country of which citizen or subject, if such country is other than that whence alien came. Address should include street and number.

Column 18 (Final destination).—The answer to this question shall show the intended future permanent residence. An intended residence of one year shall constitute permanent residence. The entry should show definitely the place (city or town) of intended future permanent residence, if within the United States; country, if outside the United States, and port of intended departure.

Column 19 (Whether having a ticket to such final destination).—The answer should be either Yes (ticket) or No (no ticket).

Column 20 (By whom was passage paid).—The entry should show definitely by whom passage was paid, as self; husband, father, brother, or other relative; friend; steamship company, etc.

Column 21 (Whether in possession of $50, and if less, how much).—The answer should give in each case (individual or family) the exact amount of money shown. Money brought by the head of a family should not be divided among the several members of the family.

Column 22 (Whether ever before in the United States; and if so, when, where, and date of last departure).—The entries should show whether or not (Yes or No) in the United States before; and if so, the year (or period of years) and place, as, 1904 1907, Philadelphia. Where in the United States more than once previously, indicate last residence only, and give exact or approximate date of last departure from the United States.

Column 23 (Whether going to join relative or friend).—The answer should show whether going to join either a relative or friend, with name and complete address; and if a relative, the exact relationship.

Columns 24 to 36.—These questions are self-explanatory and the answers, like all others on the sheet, are subject to revision by inspection officers in the examination of aliens. However, in answering question 30, if alien has been excluded and deported within one year and the Secretary of Labor has authorized him to reapply for admission, the authority for such reapplication should be given.

NOTE.—Full text of question 28 is as follows: Whether a person who believes in or advocates the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States or of all forms of law, or who disbelieves in or is opposed to organized government, or who advocates the assassination of public officials, or who advocates or teaches the unlawful destruction of property, or is a member of or affiliated with any organization entertaining and teaching disbelief in or opposition to organized government or which teaches the unlawful destruction of property, or who advocates or teaches the duty, necessity, or propriety of the unlawful assaulting or killing of any officer or officers, either of specific individuals or of officers generally, of the Government of the United States or of any other organized government because of his or their official character.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING ALIEN MANIFEST

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States. Recording or separate manifests immigrants and non-immigrants, as defined by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also records or separate manifests those eligible transportation in the third class and the so-called contract class, whose rates read the initials of reciprocal advisers, and those whose rates do not read such initials. The manner of filling in these data is explained below. Where a family has been together since leaving their native land, they should be entered in the same manifest sheet when they travel in the same class; but if they travel in different classes, appropriate data should be made on the sheets on which the respective names are listed.

Column 1 (Hand-list number).—Consecutive lines should be numbered in regular order, beginning with 1 for each sheet. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 2 (Name).—The surname in full should be entered first, followed by the given names or initials.

Column 3 (Sex).—The sex of each person should be indicated by the letter M (male) or F (female).

Column 4 (Married or single).—The words M (married), S (single), Wd (widowed), or D (divorced).

Column 5 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as accurately as possible the occupation, trade, or profession of each alien person, as: farmer, laborer, servant, clerk, etc., and not merely "Civil engineer, electrical engineer, locomotive engineer, mining engineer," plain "engineer," "steam engineer," "civil engineer," etc., and not simply "engineer." A distinction should be made between farmers and farm laborers, designating as "farmer" the one who operates a farm, either for himself or for others.

A farmer is one who owns or rents a farm or who manages a farm for the owner who operates it.

A farm laborer is one who works on a farm for the farm who operates it.

Steamship companies should make this distinction on the manifests, and correction should be made, if necessary, by inspectors during the personal examination of alien arrivals.

Column 6 (Able to read and write).—This column is subdivided into columns for the following questions: "Can read?" "Can write?" In answering this question in cases of aliens 14 years of age or over, the entry should be Yes or No. If the alien is unable to read any language, write "No" in the first column and leave the second blank. In the case of children under 14 years of age who can read, but not write, write "Yes" in the first column and "No" in the second. Children under 6 years of age, who can neither read nor write, should be entered in the second column as "No."

Column 7 (Nationality).—Question 6 should be construed to mean the country of which the alien person is a citizen or subject.

Column 8 (Race or people).—See list of races printed on back of this sheet.

The entry should show the race or people as given in this list.

Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject, country of last permanent residence, and country to which they may be going. For instance, the Irish are a people, a race, and a nationality, but they are not a country. The term "French" may mean "France," "French" may mean "French Canada," or "Haiti." The term "German" may mean "Germany," or "Germans" may be used to designate a people, and, similarly "English" may mean the people of a race or people does not necessarily denote the country of England, Switzerland, or any other country. In this connection the following distinctions should be carefully observed:

CANADA

The terms "Canada" refers to the Canada people (not Negroes).

WEST INDIAN

"West Indian" refers to the people of the West Indies other than either Cuba or Negroes.

CENTRAL AMERICAN

"Central American" refers to the people of Central and South America of Spanish descent.

"Negro" refers to the African (black); whether coming from Cuba or other islands of the West Indies, North or South America, Europe, or Africa. Any alien may be considered to belong to the Negro race who has any appreciable trace of Negro blood.

Column 9 (Last or former residence).—Give the country in which the alien had his last permanent residence prior to coming to the United States. Do not enter cities or towns.

Column 10 (Intended future permanent residence).—Enter the country in which the alien intends to reside permanently in the United States. Do not enter cities or towns.

Column 11 (Final destination).—Enter the city, town, or village in the United States to which the alien is destined. Aliens destined to Canada should be entered as "Canada."

Column 12 (Seeking admission to the United States for the purpose of).—Enter here briefly the purpose for which the alien is coming to the United States, as: "Visitor," "Student," "Temporary worker," "Returning resident," "Treaty trader," "Treaty investor," "Fiancée," "Minister of religion," "Professional athlete," "Member of family of citizen of the United States," "Member of family of alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence," "Member of family of alien temporarily admitted," "Diplomat," "Foreign government official," "Visitor for business," "Visitor for pleasure," "Visitor in transit," "Temporary worker performing services unavailable locally," "Temporary worker performing distinguished merit and ability," "Trainee," "Specialist," "Treaty trader," "Treaty investor," "Temporary worker performing other temporary service or labor," "Returning resident," "Fiancée," "Spouse," "Child," "Parent," "Representative," "International organization," "Attendant," "Servant," "Personal employee," "Member of family of representative," "Member of family of international organization," "Temporary worker performing services unavailable locally

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States. Recording on separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants, as defined by the immigration Act of 1924; but aliens specifically exempted from examination by the so-called contract clause, who arrive part the initials of recognized seafaring and industrial workers, are not listed. The manner of making entries on the manifest should appear upon the same manifest sheet when they travel in the same class; but if they travel in different classes, separate entries must be made on the sheets or which the respective names are listed.

Column 1 (Number on manifest).—Consecutive figures should be used, beginning with "1" for the first alien listed on each sheet.

Column 2 (Last name).—The surname in full should be printed in every case.

Column 3 (Given name in full).—The given name in full should be printed in every case.

Column 4 (Age).—The age should be entered in figures for every alien. Infants under 1 year of age should be entered as "0".

Column 5 (Sex).—The sex should be indicated by "M" for male and "F" for female.

Column 6 (Married or single).—The word should be entered as "M" (married), "S" (single), "W" (widowed), or "D" (divorced).

Column 7 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as accurately as possible the occupation, trade, or profession to which each alien is entitled, as, for example: "Clerk, bookkeeper, cashier, or accountant; "Engineer, civil, mining, mechanical, electrical, or consulting engineer; "Farmer, stock raiser, or agriculturist; "Laborer, general laborer, or unskilled worker"; "Servant, cook, waiter, or other occupation in domestic service"; "Merchant, manufacturer, or dealer"; "Musician, artist, or actor"; "Clergyman"; "Author, writer, or editor"; "Physician"; "Lawyer"; "Scientist"; "Teacher"; "Tailor"; "Tailoress"; "Dressmaker"; "Milliner"; "Barber"; "Hairdresser"; "Baker"; "Butcher"; "Painter"; "Mason"; "Carpenter"; "Shoemaker"; "Blacksmith"; "Machinist"; "Mechanic"; "Miner"; "Chauffeur"; "Driver"; "Fisherman"; "Seaman"; "Stewardess"; "Housekeeper"; "Nurse"; "Midwife"; "Student"; "Child"; or other independent occupation.

A distinction should be made between farmers and farm laborers, regardless of the amount of money owned, as follows:

A farmer is one who operates a farm, either for himself or for others.

A farm laborer is one who works on a farm for the farm who employs him.

Gentlemen, merchants, and tailors should be described as such, and not as "capitalists" or "investors," unless they are engaged in no occupation, profession, or trade, or unless they are unemployed by the owners thereof, to make a physical and mental examination of each and all of the aliens named in the foregoing Lists or Manifest Sheets, ——— in number, and that from the report of said surgeon and from my own investigation, I believe that no one of said aliens is of any of the classes excluded from admission into the United States by law regulating immigration, and that also, according to the best of my knowledge and belief, the information in said Lists or Manifests concerning each of said aliens named therein is correct and true in every respect.

Sworn to before me this ——— day of JUL 31 1941, 19——.

——— Immigrant Inspector.

at SEATTLE, WASH.

——— Officer.

Column 8 (Nationality).—Each alien should be described as a citizen or subject of which alien is a citizen or subject, except that if such government has ceased to exist, as in the case of Austria-Hungary, the nationality should be described as Austrian, Hungarian, Czechoslovakian, Polish, Yugoslavian, etc., as the case may be.

Column 9 (Race or people).—See list of races printed on back of this sheet.

The entry should show the race or people as given in said list.

Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject, country of last permanent residence, and country of birth, and manifests should be carefully reviewed by inspectors in this regard. For instance, "France" should not mean "French" by race or people, and similarly "French" should not be used to describe persons born in "France" who are citizens of countries other than France, as, for example, Switzerland, or who have multiple nationalities, as, for example, Germans born in Alsace-Lorraine.

Column 10 (Last permanent residence).—The country should be entered in every case. Where the alien has resided in the United States for 1 year or more, the last residence should be the United States, and the city, town, or village should be entered. Where the alien has resided in the United States for less than 1 year, the last residence should be the country in which he resided immediately before coming to the United States.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING ALIEN MANIFESTS

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States. Recording on separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants, as defined by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also recording on separate manifests those aliens traveling in the third class and the so-called tourist class, whose rates pend the initiation of technical services, and those whose rates do not pend such initiation. The number of all immigrants to a family shall appear upon the same manifest sheet when they travel in the same class; and if they travel in different classes, appropriate entries should be made on the sheets on which the respective names are listed.

Column 1 (Head-tax status).—Programmatic three should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 2 (Name).—The surname should be extended in full and the given name or initial should follow, the latter appearing only to those under 1 year of age.

Column 3 (Relationship).—The entry should be "H" (head), "W" (wife), "C" (child), or "S" (servant), as the case may be.

Column 4 (Age).—The entry should be given in full by stating the age at last birthday. Infants under 1 year of age should be entered as "1 m." or "2 m.", as the case may be, according to the number of months.

Column 5 (Sex).—The entry should be given as M (male) or F (female).

Column 6 (Married or single).—The entry should be M (married), S (single), W (widowed), or D (divorced).

Column 7 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as specifically as possible the occupation, trade, or profession of each alien 15 years of age and over, for example: Clerk, engineer, mechanic, farmer, laborer, merchant, seamstress, tailor, tailoress, servant, housewife, painter, baker, blacksmith, carpenter, mason, miner, butcher, chauffeur, etc., and not simply as laborer, farmer, or housewife.

Column 8 (Nationality).—Name the country in which each person is a citizen or subject. Former citizens of Austria-Hungary should designate whether subjects of Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, etc.

Column 9 (Race or people).—Each person must be returned as belonging to some race or people, such as African (black), Armenian, Bohemian, Bulgarian, Chinese, Croatian, Dalmatian, Dutch, East Indian, English, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Irish, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Lithuanian, Magyar, Mexican, Moorish, Pacific Islander, Polish, Portuguese, Roumanian, Russian, Ruthenian (Russniak), Scandinavian, Scotch, Servian, Slovak, Slovenian, Spanish, Spanish-American, Syrian, Turkish, Welsh, West Indian (except Cuban), or other people (not nations or countries) to which they belong.

Column 10 (Last residence).—Enter the country in which each person had his last residence. Do not enter "Europe," "Asia," or "America."

Column 11 (Place of birth).—The State, province, or district of birth should be shown in addition to the city or town.

Column 12 (Vessel manifest).—Enter serial number of manifest on which each person is entered in addition to the name of the vessel. Manifests are numbered consecutively, beginning with 1 on January 1 of each year.

Column 13—Data relative to the holder and date of issue of the document described in column 15, but if "non-quota" or "visa" or "IV" or "IV(d)" or "IV(e)" is the appropriate document, write the word "Exempt" in this column.

Column 14 (Examination of baggage, etc.).—Immigrants must be asked if they have in their possession more than $100 in money, or the equivalent in that amount in foreign coin or currency, and the answer is to be recorded in column 14, which should be headed "Money."

Column 15 (Visa).—Enter the number of the immigrant visa, if any, issued to the alien by the American consular officer.

Column 16 (Whether going to join relative or friend).—The steward should show whether each person is going to join relative or friend, with name and complete address; whether going to join other relative or friend, with name and complete address; and if a relative, the exact relationship.

Column 17—38.—These questions are self-explanatory and the answers, like all others, should be given in full. However, in answering question 36, it shall not be necessary to state the exact address of relatives in the United States, but only the State in which they reside. Question 38 is to be answered by a "Yes" or "No" as the case may be.

Column 39 (Final destination).—The steward should show definitely the place (city or town) of intended future permanent residence. It should not be sufficient to enter "U. S." or "New York," as the alien may be destined to some place outside the United States, and both of intended destination.

Column 40 (Whether having a ticket to and payment for passage).—The steward should be given "Yes" (ticket) or "No" (no ticket).

Column 50 (By whom sent, if not relative or friend).—The entry should show definitely by whom passage was paid, as well; husband, father, brother, or other relative; friend; steamship company, etc.

Column 52 (Whether ever before in the United States; and if so, when, where, and how long ago).—The steward should write "Yes" or "No" in each case. Applies to the United States as now constituted, including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Canal Zone, Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, and Virgin Islands.

Column 53 (Whether ever in prison or almshouse or supported by charity; and if so, what and when).—The steward should write "Yes" or "No" in each case. Applies to the United States as now constituted, including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Canal Zone, Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, and Virgin Islands.

Column 55 (Whether in possession of railroad ticket to interior destination).—The steward should write "Yes" or "No" in each case. Applies to the United States as now constituted, including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Canal Zone, Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, and Virgin Islands.

Column 56 (Whether ever before in the United States; and if so, when, where, and how long ago).—The steward should write "Yes" or "No" in each case. Applies to the United States as now constituted, including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Canal Zone, Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila, and Virgin Islands. Answer this question only, and give exact or approximate date of last departure from the United States.

Column 57 (Whether going to join relative or friend).—The steward should write whether going to join relative or friend, with name and complete address; and if a relative, the exact relationship.

Columns 58—38.—These questions are self-explanatory and the answers, like all others, should be given in full. However, in answering question 36, it shall not be necessary to state the exact address of relatives in the United States, but only the State in which they reside. Question 38 is to be answered by a "Yes" or "No" as the case may be.

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States. Recording on separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants, as defined by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also recording on separate manifests those aliens traveling in the third class and the so-called tourist class, whose rates pend the initiation of technical services, and those whose rates do not pend such initiation. Column 1 (Head-tax status).—Programmatic three should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 2 (Name).—The surname should be extended in full and the given name or initial should follow, the latter appearing only to those under 1 year of age.

Column 7 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as specifically as possible the occupation, trade, or profession of each alien 15 years of age and over, for example: Clerk, engineer, mechanic, farmer, laborer, merchant, seamstress, tailor, tailoress, servant, housewife, painter, baker, blacksmith, carpenter, mason, miner, butcher, chauffeur, etc., and not simply as laborer, farmer, or housewife.

Column 8 (Nationality).—Name the country in which each person is a citizen or subject. Former citizens of Austria-Hungary should designate whether subjects of Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, etc.

Column 9 (Race or people).—See list of races printed on back of this sheet.

The entry should show the race or people as given in this list.

Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject, country of last permanent residence, and country to which each and manifested should be carefully learned by inspectors in this regard. For instance, "France" should not be confused with "Canada," "Switzerland," or any other country. In this regard, similarly "French" abbreviated under the head of race or people does not mean "France" by country. An Irish, German, or Hebrew alien by race should properly come under the heading of England, Switzerland, or any other country. In this connection the following distinctions should be carefully observed:

CUBAN

The term "Cuban" refers to the Cuban people (not Negroes).

WEST INDIAN

"West Indian" refers to the people of the West Indies other than either Cuban or Negroes.

CENTRAL AMERICAN

"Spanish American" refers to the people of Central and South America of Spanish descent.

"Negro" refers to the African (black). Whether coming from Cuba or other islands of the West Indies, North or South America, Europe, or Africa. Any alien who admixture of blood of the African (black) should be classified under this heading.

AFFIDAVIT OF THE MASTER OR COMMANDING OFFICER, OR FIRST OR SECOND OFFICER

I, C. Ishide Master, of the M.S."Hikawa Maru", from Kobe via Yokohama, do solemnly, sincerely, and truly swear that I have caused the surgeon of said vessel sailing therewith, or the surgeon employed by the owners thereof, to make a physical and mental examination of each and all of the aliens named in the foregoing Lists or Manifest Sheets, 7 in number, and that from the report of said surgeon and from my own investigation, I believe that no one of said aliens is of any of the classes excluded from admission into the United States by laws regulating immigration, and that also, according to the best of my knowledge and belief, the information in said Lists or Manifests concerning each of said aliens named therein is correct and true in every respect.

Officer.

Sworn to before me this JUN 16 1941 day of ..., 19 at SEATTLE, WASH.

Immigrant Inspector.

16—480

INSTRUCTIONS FOR PREPARING ALIEN MANIFESTS

Separate manifests should be prepared for each port at which passengers embark for the United States, recording on separate manifests immigrants and nonimmigrants, as defined by the Immigration Act of 1924; and also recording on separate manifests those aliens traveling in the third class and the so-called tourist class, whose visas bear the initials of technical advisers, and those whose visas do not bear such initials. The names of all members of a family shall appear upon the same manifest sheet when they travel in the same class; and if they travel in different classes, appropriate cross references should be made on the sheets on which the respective names are listed.

Column 2 (Head-tax status).—Steamship lines should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 4 (Age).—The answer in this column should be expressed in years or months, the latter applying only to those under 1 year of age.

Column 5 (Sex).—The entry should be either M (male) or F (female).

Column 6 (Married or single).—The answer should be M (married), S (single), Wd (widowed), or D (divorced).

Column 7 (Calling or occupation).—The entry should describe as accurately as possible the occupation, trade, or profession of each alien arrival, as, for example: Civil engineer, stationary engineer, locomotive engineer, mining engineer, brass polisher, steel polisher, iron molder, wood turner, etc., and not simply as engineer, polisher, molder, turner, or other indefinite designations.

A distinction should be made between farmers and farm laborers, regardless of the amount of money shown, as follows:

A farmer is one who operates a farm, either for himself or for others.

A farm laborer is one who works on a farm for the man who operates it.

Steamship companies should make this distinction on the manifests, and corrections should be made, if necessary, by inspectors during the personal examination of alien arrivals.

Column 8 (Able to read and write).—This column is subdivided and contains the following questions: "Read what language [or, if exemption is claimed, upon what ground]." In answering this question the language or dialect the alien is able to read should be stated. If alien is unable to read and claims exemption from the reading requirement, the ground for such exemption should be given.

Column 9 (Nationality).—Question 9 should be construed to mean the country of which alien is a citizen or subject.

Column 10 (Race or people).—See list of races printed on back of this sheet. The entry should show the race or people as given in said list.

Special attention should be paid to the distinction between race and the country of which citizen or subject, country of last permanent residence, and country of birth, and manifests should be carefully revised by inspectors in this regard. For instance, "France" appearing under the head of country does not mean "French" by race or people, and, similarly "French" appearing under the head of race or people does not mean "France" by country. An Irish, German, or Hebrew alien by race might properly come under the heading of England, Switzerland, or any other country. In this connection the following distinctions should be especially observed:

CUBAN

The term "Cuban" refers to the Cuban people (not Negroes).

WEST INDIAN

"West Indian" refers to the people of the West Indies other than either Cubans or Negroes.

SPANISH AMERICAN

"Spanish American" refers to the people of Central and South America of Spanish descent.

NEGRO

"Negro" refers to the African (black), whether coming from Cuba or other islands of the West Indies, North or South America, Europe, or Africa. Any alien with admixture of blood of the African (black) should be classified under this heading.

Column 11 (Place of birth).—The State, province, or district of birth should be shown in addition to the city or town.

Column 12 (Serial number of document presented).—Prefix serial number of document with abbreviation "QIV", "NQIV", "PV", or "RP", as appropriate, to designate whether it is Quota Immigration Visa, Nonquota Immigration Visa, Passport Visa, or Reentry Permit; and also state section of the Immigration Act of 1924 involved, as section 4 (a).

Column 13.—This question has reference to the place and date of issue of the document described in column 12, and is self-explanatory.

Column 14 (Verifications of landing, etc.).—Steamship lines should make no entries in this column. The space is for use of Government officials only.

Column 15 (Last permanent residence).—Actual or an intended residence of 1 year shall constitute permanent residence. The last country in which alien resided with the intention of remaining 1 year or more shall be the last permanent residence regardless of length of actual residence therein. The entries in column 15 should show the country, city or town, State, province, or district of last permanent residence. It is important for statistical purposes that steamship companies accurately show country of last permanent residence independent of country of temporary residence, country of birth, nationality, or race.

Country of last permanent residence of aliens who are permanent residents of the United States and are returning from a visit abroad should be recorded "United States."

Column 17 (Name and complete address of nearest relative or friend in country whence alien came).—The entry should give name, exact relationship, and complete address of such relative. If no such relative living, give name and address of friend. If no such relative or friend living in country whence alien came, give name and address of relative or friend in country of which citizen or subject, if such country is other than that whence alien came. Address should include street and number.

Column 18 (Final destination).—The answer to this question shall show the intended future permanent residence. An intended residence of 1 year shall constitute permanent residence. The entry should show definitely the place (city or town) of intended future permanent residence, if within the United States; country, if outside the United States, and port of intended departure.

Column 19 (Whether having a ticket to such final destination).—The answer should be either Yes (ticket) or No (no ticket).

Column 20 (By whom was passage paid).—The entry should show definitely by whom passage was paid, as self; husband, father, brother, or other relative; friend; steamship company, etc.

Column 21 (Whether in possession of $50, and if less, how much).—The answer should give in each case (individual or family) the exact amount of money shown. Money brought by the head of a family should not be divided among the several members of the family.

Column 22 (Whether ever before in the United States; and if so, when, where, and date of last departure).—The entries should show whether or not (Yes or No) in the United States before; and if so, the year (or period of years) and place, as, 1894–1897, Philadelphia. Where in the United States more than once previously, indicate last residence only, and give exact or approximate date of last departure from the United States.

Column 23 (Whether going to join relative or friend).—The answer should show whether going to join either a relative or friend, with name and complete address; and if a relative, the exact relationship.

Columns 24 to 36.—These questions are self-explanatory and the answers, like all others on the sheet, are subject to revision by inspection officers in the examination of aliens. However, in answering question 30, if alien has been excluded and deported within 1 year, and in answering 31, if alien has been ordered deported under warrant at any time, authority in the Secretary of Labor to reapply for admission should be shown.

LIST OF RACES OR PEOPLES

"Race or people" is to be determined by the stock from which aliens spring and the language they speak. The original stock or blood shall be the basis of the classification, the immigrant coming to be used only to assist in determining the original stock.

AFFIDAVIT OF THE MASTER OR COMMANDING OFFICER, OR FIRST OR SECOND OFFICER

I, ... Master ...., of the M. S. "Hikawa Maru" ...., do declare that the foregoing is a full and true list of all the crew brought in said vessel from any port or place during her present voyage. I have noted the copy of section 36 of the United States Immigration Law and of paragraph 6, subdivision (b), Immigration Rule 6, which appears below.

.... Master, First or Second Officer.

Sworn to before me this ...... day of JUN 10 1941, 19......

.... Immigrant Inspector.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members of crews (Form 658) shall not be retained on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an arriving seaman is a "workaway" a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

Sec. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be paid off and discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing so much of such information as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been paid off and discharged, and of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the said lists of such aliens arriving and departing, respectively, or so to report such cases of desertion or landing, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall, if required by the Secretary of Labor, pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above required; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, nor shall such fine be remitted or refunded: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 6

Par. 6. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the lists required by Section 36 have been furnished, and not then unless, notice of liability to the administrative fine prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 35 having been served, the deposit specified in Rule 22 has been made.

ALIEN SEAMEN

Sec. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

Sec. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport after requirement by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(d) Section 32 of the Immigration Act of 1917 is repealed, but shall remain in force as to all vessels, their owners, agents, consignees, and masters, and as to all seamen, arriving in the United States prior to the enactment of this Act.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list of questions printed below shall be propounded on behalf of the Department and no others, for deliveries to the immigration officer at the port of first arrival, unless additional questions touching the right of any alien to enter the United States shall be propounded by the immigrant inspector. The list of questions to which answers are required from each alien may be propounded by any immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, and answers thereto recorded in the discretion of such inspector.

When an alien claims exemption from the head tax, the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival will require the production of such evidence as may be necessary to establish the right of such alien to admission without the payment of the head tax.

Any alien who is in possession of a United States certificate of arrival issued to him at the time of his last entry into the United States, and who is returning to the United States from a temporary visit abroad not longer than one year, will be admitted without the production of evidence as to his former residence, occupation, and intention, unless the immigrant inspector has information which in his judgment renders such alien inadmissible under the law, or unless such alien is found upon arrival to be afflicted with a contagious disease.

Any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who has been absent therefrom for a period of less than one year will be admitted upon his return without the production of evidence as to his former residence, occupation, and intention, unless the immigrant inspector has information which in his judgment renders such alien inadmissible under the law, or unless such alien is found upon arrival to be afflicted with a contagious disease.

Any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who has been absent therefrom for a period of more than one year but less than two years will be admitted upon his return unless the immigrant inspector has information which in his judgment renders such alien inadmissible under the law, or unless such alien is found upon arrival to be afflicted with a contagious disease, or unless such alien has become a public charge since his last entry into the United States.

Any alien who has been absent from the United States for a period of more than two years will be treated upon his return as an immigrant alien and required to establish his admissibility in accordance with the provisions of the immigration laws.

Any alien who has been absent from the United States for a period of more than two years because prevented by physical disability from returning to the United States within the period of absence limited by law will be admitted upon his return if he was in possession of a valid certificate of arrival issued to him at the time of his last entry into the United States and if he returns within such time as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

Any alien who has been absent from the United States for a period of more than two years because prevented by the immigration laws of the United States from returning within the period of absence limited by law will be admitted upon his return if he was in possession of a valid certificate of arrival issued to him at the time of his last entry into the United States and if he returns within such time as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

Any alien who has been absent from the United States for a period of more than two years because prevented by the immigration laws of the United States from returning within the period of absence limited by law, and who is not in possession of a valid certificate of arrival issued to him at the time of his last entry into the United States, will be treated upon his return as an immigrant alien and required to establish his admissibility in accordance with the provisions of the immigration laws.

Any alien who has been absent from the United States for a period of more than two years because prevented by physical disability from returning within the period of absence limited by law, and who is not in possession of a valid certificate of arrival issued to him at the time of his last entry into the United States, will be treated upon his return as an immigrant alien and required to establish his admissibility in accordance with the provisions of the immigration laws.

Such list or manifest shall show the full name, age, sex, calling or occupation, nationality, last residence, and seaport for landing of every alien on board, whether he or she is in possession of a ticket or has the price of transportation, whether he or she has been in the United States or elsewhere before, whether going to join relatives or friends, and if so, what relatives or friends, and their names and complete addresses, and such other information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or such person duly authorized, touching the right of each alien to enter the United States. Such list or manifest shall also show whether each alien has a ticket and the amount of money in his possession, and by whom the ticket was paid and the amount paid therefor, and whether the alien has been in prison or almshouse or supported by charity, and whether he or she is coming by reason of any offer, solicitation, promise, agreement, or assistance of any kind from any person, company, or corporation, and the cause for leaving his or her home country, and whether he or she intends to return thereto, whether he or she has a ticket through to his or her destination, and whether he or she has been deported before, and if so, how many times and the cause therefor. Such list or manifest shall also show the sex, marital condition, age, nationality, last residence, and final destination of every alien who has been admitted into the United States at such port during the fiscal year to which the report relates, and such other information regarding the same as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration. Such list or manifest shall be prepared at the time of embarkation at the last port from which any such alien departs upon any vessel coming to the United States, and shall be signed by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, or by the purser or other officer duly authorized by such master, agent, consignee, or owner, and sworn to before the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and such master, agent, consignee, or owner shall deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival the list or manifest required by this section to be prepared at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last foreign port or place touched at by such vessel on the way to the United States, and if any such master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel shall refuse or neglect to deliver such list or manifest at the time of the departure of such vessel from such foreign port or place, or shall refuse or neglect to answer truthfully and to the best of his knowledge and belief fully all questions propounded to him pursuant to the provisions of this section, or to comply with the requirements of this section or any lawful rule or regulation made by the Commissioner General of Immigration, approved by the Secretary of Labor, regarding the same, he shall pay to the collector of the port at which such vessel shall arrive a penalty of $10 for each alien with respect to whom any such default occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers until the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) That after an alien arrives and has entered the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or after such vessel has in any other way lawfully cleared, the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall have power and authority to take from any such alien who may be found in the United States, within three years after his arrival, such information as will show whether he or she has been deported, and such alien shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered in violation of law, upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, and to the same country, unless such alien shall prove to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he or she was a member of one of the classes of aliens exempted from deportation, or that he or she entered prior to January 1, 1908, or that he or she has become a naturalized citizen of the United States, or that he or she was not found in the United States within three years after his arrival, or that he or she was deported at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of deportation, or that he or she has been arrested and deported in the same manner as provided for in this section within three years after his arrival, or that he or she has remained a resident of the United States for a period of three years after his arrival, or that he or she was a child under sixteen years of age at the time of his arrival and has resided continuously in the United States since such arrival, or that he or she was in transit through the United States as a bona fide passenger of a vessel engaged in foreign commerce, or that he or she was a seaman regularly employed as such on a vessel arriving at a port of the United States from a foreign port, and is employed as such on a vessel departing from the United States, or that he or she was a seaman regularly employed as such on a vessel arriving at a port of the United States from a foreign port, and is employed as such on a vessel departing from the United States, or that he or she was a seaman regularly employed as such on a vessel arriving at a port of the United States from a foreign port, and is employed as such on a vessel departing from a foreign port for the United States, if the master of such vessel certifies the name and description of such alien seaman to the immigration officer at the port of arrival at the time of his arrival, and the name and description of such alien seaman are entered on the outbound manifest of such vessel, and such vessel departs from the United States with such alien seaman on board, unless the immigration officer at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien seaman intends to violate the immigration laws of the United States, or that such alien seaman has been convicted of a crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or that such alien seaman is afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, or that such alien seaman is a member of one of the classes of aliens excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, and such alien seaman shall be granted a landing certificate, renewable at intervals of not exceeding thirty days, by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, which shall entitle such alien seaman to go ashore during the period of his vessel's stay in port, and return to the vessel when it departs, or to ship on another vessel bound for a foreign port, or to be treated in all respects as an alien entering the United States for the first time, and subject to the provisions of this act.

The list of changes of alien members (Form 583) shall not be required on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an arriving seaman is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, arranged the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on and discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing no names of such information as the Secretary of Labor shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of any such vessel it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all aliens employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired or discharged, and of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the lists required by this section, or to report after every such arrival, and thereafter every month until all such aliens employed or discharged, or deserted, shall be shown to have left the United States or been otherwise lawfully disposed of, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who may abscond from the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be sent therefrom by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after temporary treatment by the immigration officer at the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue danger to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

EXTRACT FROM SUBDIVISION B, RULE 7

PAR. 2. SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except one which is proceeding to the mainland of Mexico or Canada or to a port in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, or the Panama Canal Zone, or to a port in the United States on the Great Lakes, shall cause each alien seaman employed on such vessel, while in the United States, to be examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at the port of arrival, or, if there be no such officer at such port, by a medical officer designated by the Secretary of Labor for the purpose, and obtain a certificate, signed by such officer, stating the result of such examination. Such certificate shall be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or, if there be no such officer at such port, to the master of the vessel, who shall deliver it to the immigration officer at the first port in the United States at which the vessel shall thereafter touch. Such examination shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner, of every alien seaman employed on board such vessel, except one who has been examined by the medical examiner of the Public Health Service at the last port of departure from a foreign country, or at the port of departure from the United States, if such alien seaman has been employed on board such vessel continuously since such examination, and except one who is in transit through the United States to join his vessel in order to be examined abroad. The master of such vessel shall furnish to each alien seaman a certificate stating that he has been examined as required by this section, and shall enter in the ship's articles the date of such examination.

(c) Any master who fails to comply with the provisions of this section shall pay a penalty of $100 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be sent therefrom by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after temporary treatment by the immigration officer at the Secretary of Labor.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue danger to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place in the West Indies, Mexico, Central or South America, Newfoundland, or Canada, other than an alien seaman employed on board a vessel touching only at ports in foreign contiguous territory adjacent to the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of sickness or injury certified by the medical officer in charge at the port of debarkation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the contiguous territory of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport alien seaman as required by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

Sworn to before me this 14 day of June, 21.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members to be made (from 6&8) shall not be furnished on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival in duplicate, a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest.

SEC. 30. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival like duplicate lists of the names of all alien members employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped to engage, and specifying those to be landed in the port of arrival; to make duplicate lists of the names of all such members, and of the sick or injured alien members left behind in the port of departure, and the cause for such detention, so far as can be discovered, all cases in which any such alien may be entitled to land in the United States, and the manifest of the vessel if it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien may be illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been paid off and discharged, and the cause, if any, why each person was paid off and discharged; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the lists aforesaid such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or to cure defects in the lists delivered or to the payment of such penalty as to such consul may seem just, but such penalty shall not exceed in any case the sum of $120 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or to the payment of such penalty as to such consul may seem just, but such penalty shall not exceed in any case the sum of $120 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or to cure defects in the lists delivered or to the payment of such fine, but in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid; nor shall such fine be remitted or refunded: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, including insulars, or entering or clearing from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or to secure the necessary supplies, treatment, or repairs for the vessel, or because of shipwreck, and no such seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States from any vessel arriving therein from any place outside thereof, except upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor or such person as he may designate for the purpose, or the consular officer at the port of departure, or, in the absence of a consular officer at such port, the commanding officer of the nearest available vessel of the Army or Navy of the United States, that adequate provision has been made for the return of such seaman to the country to which he belongs, or to the place from which he came to the United States, or to such other place as may be acceptable to him and the Secretary of Labor, and sufficient money has been deposited with the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in the United States and his return passage: Provided, That no such seaman shall be refused a certificate by the immigration officer at the port of arrival if the master of the vessel on which he arrived shall enter into a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs, as the Secretary of Labor may require, conditioned for the return of such alien to the country to which he belongs, or for the payment of the cost of his maintenance while detained in the United States, and for the payment of any hospital expenses and burial charges that may be incurred on account of such alien seaman: Provided further, That no such seaman who has been admitted to the United States shall be entitled to be treated as a seaman during the period he remains in the United States for the purpose of performing labor or service other than that required in the ordinary routine of the vessel on which he arrived, nor shall he be permitted to land from such vessel except temporarily while in port unless in charge of the officers thereof, or to accompany the sick or injured to a hospital, or to attend the wounded or injured, or to bury the dead of such vessel, nor shall he be detained in the United States for the performance of any such service after the vessel on which he arrived shall have departed: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the enforcement of this section such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary, and may require the owners of vessels bringing seamen to the United States to furnish a bond or deposit sufficient to guarantee compliance therewith: Provided further, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

SEC. 25. (a) No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or to secure necessary supplies, treatment, or repairs for the vessel, or because of shipwreck, and no such seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States from any vessel arriving therein from any place outside thereof, except upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor or such person as he may designate for the purpose, or the consular officer at the port of departure, or, in the absence of a consular officer at such port, the commanding officer of the nearest available vessel of the Army or Navy of the United States, that adequate provision has been made for the return of such seaman to the country to which he belongs, or to the place from which he came to the United States, or to such other place as may be acceptable to him and the Secretary of Labor, and sufficient money has been deposited with the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in the United States and his return passage: Provided, That no such seaman who has been admitted to the United States shall be entitled to be treated as a seaman during the period he remains in the United States for the purpose of performing labor or service other than that required in the ordinary routine of the vessel on which he arrived, nor shall he be permitted to land from such vessel except temporarily while in port unless in charge of the officers thereof, or to accompany the sick or injured to a hospital, or to attend the wounded or injured, or to bury the dead of such vessel, nor shall he be detained in the United States for the performance of any such service after the vessel on which he arrived shall have departed: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the enforcement of this section such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary, and may require the owners of vessels bringing seamen to the United States to furnish a bond or deposit sufficient to cover such fine.

(b) Proof shall be taken as may be required by the immigration officer at the vessel or elsewhere, and a decision rendered thereon by the Secretary of Labor, but no appeal shall be allowed in favor of any alien who has been excluded from admission to the United States by the decision of an immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of any alien who has been admitted to the United States would cause undue hardship, loss, or disadvantage to the owner, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer of the vessel on which such alien arrived, by reason of the expense of the vessel on which he arrived being required to stay longer in port than the vessel on which he was originally scheduled to depart, the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the deportation of such alien and permit him to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or on any other vessel which will accept him on board at the time of the departure of such vessel from the port, upon the payment by the master, agent, consignee, or commanding officer of such vessel of the cost of the transportation of such alien to the port of foreign embarkation, and the cost of his maintenance while detained in the United States, and upon the deposit of such sum as may be required by the Secretary of Labor to cover the cost of his return transportation and maintenance from the port of debarkation to the port of foreign embarkation.

(d) Proof shall be taken as may be required by the immigration officer at the vessel or elsewhere, and a decision rendered thereon by the Secretary of Labor, but no appeal shall be allowed in favor of any alien who has been excluded from admission to the United States by the decision of an immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of any alien who has been admitted to the United States would cause undue hardship, loss, or disadvantage to the owner, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer of the vessel on which such alien arrived, by reason of the expense of the vessel on which he arrived being required to stay longer in port than the vessel on which he was originally scheduled to depart, the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the deportation of such alien and permit him to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or on any other vessel which will accept him on board at the time of the departure of such vessel from the port, upon the payment by the master, agent, consignee, or commanding officer of such vessel of the cost of the transportation of such alien to the port of foreign embarkation, and the cost of his maintenance while detained in the United States, and upon the deposit of such sum as may be required by the Secretary of Labor to cover the cost of his return transportation and maintenance from the port of debarkation to the port of foreign embarkation.

No vessel shall be granted clearance papers from the port of arrival until the master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs shall have furnished the information required by this section, and any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or collector of customs who shall refuse to furnish such information or who shall knowingly report falsely concerning the names or other facts regarding such aliens shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not furnished, and no vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or after the fine imposed for any such offense shall have been finally determined by the collector of customs.

(d) Every alien arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, including aliens in transit through the United States, and every alien departing from the United States to any foreign port or place, shall be examined by an immigrant inspector, unless the Secretary of Labor shall have determined that, because of the character of the means of transportation, the number of aliens carried, the short period of time during which they intend to remain, the nature of their business in the United States, and their admissibility under this Act, such examination is unnecessary for the proper execution of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion and deportation of aliens. Such examination shall be conducted by such officers of the Government as the Secretary of Labor may designate, and shall take place either at the port of arrival or at such other place or places as the Secretary of Labor may designate. Such officers shall have power to administer oaths and to take and consider evidence touching the right of any alien to enter, reside in, or depart from the United States, and may administer or cause to be administered by any person employed for the purpose the oath required by this Act to be taken by any alien, and may record the testimony of any witness given under such oath. Any person who shall willfully refuse to appear or testify in response to such subpœna, or who shall knowingly make false answer to any question material thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment. Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to appear or submit to examination within the time specified by the immigrant inspector, or to depart from the United States within the time specified by the Secretary of Labor, or to submit to such medical examination as may be required by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any alien who shall willfully remain in the United States in violation of any order of deportation made in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, or who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart within a period of six months from the date of such order of deportation, unless the time of such departure is extended for an additional period of time not exceeding six months, because of the inability of the alien to obtain a passport, or because of the refusal of any foreign government to grant said alien a passport, or because of the lack of shipping facilities, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, and any alien who shall thereafter enter the United States, or attempt to enter the United States, or who shall be found within the United States, shall be deported as provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any alien who shall willfully remain in the United States in violation of any order of deportation made in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, or who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart within a period of six months from the date of such order of deportation, unless the time of such departure is extended for an additional period of time not exceeding six months, because of the inability of the alien to obtain a passport, or because of the refusal of any foreign government to grant said alien a passport, or because of the lack of shipping facilities, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, and any alien who shall thereafter enter the United States, or attempt to enter the United States, or who shall be found within the United States, shall be deported as provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof.

Master, First or Second Officer.

Sworn to before me this 14 day of June, 1927

ALIEN SEAMEN

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MAY 26, 1924

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the alternate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 26. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall fail to deposit on board such vessel prior to departure (unless such vessel shall include a personal physical examination by an immigrant inspector) any alien seaman (whether inspected such seamen or not) shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each such seaman, which sum shall be a lien upon the vessel, and may be recovered by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized agent in any court of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the port of arrival is located, or in the district in which the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel is found. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) From what sum so ever shall be due any seaman on account of his wages, the master of any vessel on which he may have served shall withhold such sum as may be directed to be withheld by any such seaman, and pay the same to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located, and such sum shall be exempted from any claim thereto by any person whatsoever. The receipt of the collector of customs for any sum withheld as aforesaid shall be a full discharge of the master of any vessel on which the seaman was employed from any claim or demand on account of the wages of the person to whom such receipt was given. Any master who shall violate the provisions of this subdivision shall be liable to a penalty of $500.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall not be satisfied that any seaman will depart from the United States when his vessel is ready to leave port, or if for any reason action by the Secretary of Labor is deemed necessary in order to secure the presence of such seaman as a witness in connection with the prosecution of any person charged with violating any of the provisions of this section, the Secretary of Labor may require the deposit of such sum as he may deem sufficient, but not exceeding $1,000 in each case, with the collector of customs of the district in which the vessel is about to depart, to insure compliance with the requirements of this section. Upon the deposit of such sum the Secretary of Labor shall issue a certificate in duplicate to the master of the vessel on which such seaman is employed, one copy of which certificate shall be delivered by the master to the immigrant inspector at the port of departure before the vessel leaves the harbor. Upon the presentation of such certificate to the collector of customs by the master of the vessel the sum deposited shall be returned to him.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall desert from any vessel in the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this act, and at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor may be required to serve on board such vessel or such other vessel as he may designate for a period not exceeding the period remaining unexpired of the term of service of such seaman on board the vessel from which he deserted, and shall forfeit all wages due him at the time of his desertion.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor shall not be satisfied that any seaman has complied with the requirements of this section, or is about to depart from the United States in violation thereof, the Secretary of Labor may cause such seaman to be detained on board the vessel on which he arrived or on board such other vessel as may be designated by the master thereof, or may cause such seaman to be detained in such other manner as he may deem necessary, and such seaman shall not be granted clearance while detained as herein provided, except upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor.

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members of the crew (Form 588) shall not be furnished on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival last preceding the departure of the vessel from a foreign port or place if it shall be the duty of the master, under the provisions of section 30 of the Act of February 20, 1907, to report changes of alien members of the crew. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the alien's country, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those of the said aliens who intend to land in the United States, except temporarily, and also specifying those who are in possession of through tickets to interior points in the United States or to points in foreign countries, or who have been in the United States and have been deported at their own expense or at the expense of the steamship company or other parties, or who are stowaways, or who have been in the United States and have been deported at the expense of the United States, or who are in charge of property left by deceased aliens, or who are connected with the military or naval service of any foreign country now at war with any country with which the United States may be at war, or who have been rejected by the examining surgeon but have been certified by him for special inquiry on account of mental defect, chronic alcoholism, epilepsy, tuberculosis, or any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, or who have been convicted of or admit the commission of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or who are polygamists, or who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States or of all forms of law, or who are anarchists, or who are coming to perform labor under contract, express or implied, made previous to landing, or who have been deported as paupers or likely public charges, or who have come in consequence of advertisements for laborers printed and circulated in foreign countries, and shall truthfully answer all questions that may be put to them for the purpose of ascertaining whether any of such aliens belong to any of the foregoing classes or are otherwise subject to exclusion or deportation under the provisions of this Act. Such lists shall be verified by the master or commanding officer, or the first or second officer of the vessel, and shall contain such particulars concerning each alien as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor shall have the right to refuse to permit to land from any vessel any alien who belongs to any of the foregoing classes or who has come in consequence of advertisements for laborers printed and circulated in foreign countries, and the decision of the Secretary of Labor shall be final as to the right of any alien to land in the United States. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver such lists, or who shall deliver lists which are incorrect or incomplete in any material particular, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such incorrect or incomplete information is given, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the right of any alien to land, or while any alien who has been certified by the examining surgeon as afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease is on board, unless such alien is in a hospital for treatment and detention, or while any such case of sickness or infectious disease exists among the crew, unless a permit to land such sick person shall be granted by the United States Public Health Service officer at the port. Upon the refusal to land any alien, or upon the taking of any bond or the performance of any other condition imposed as a prerequisite to the granting of a permit to land any alien, the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which such alien shall have been brought to the port shall be notified in writing by the immigrant inspector in charge, and unless such alien shall be immediately removed from the United States to a foreign country other than that whence he came, or shall be duly admitted by the United States officials, the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which such alien was brought to the port shall pay to the collector of customs a sum equal to the cost of maintenance while in custody and the return passage money to the place whence he came, which shall be determined by the Secretary of Labor, and in default of such payment a lien is created upon the vessel, which may be enforced by the collector of customs.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such person he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expenses shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(d) Proof that an alien assigned did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport.

(e) It shall be the duty of the master, commanding officer, or agent of any vessel bringing an alien to the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport alien rejected, and not more than one such alien shall be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 38. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory who shall fail to detain such seaman on board the vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry has been notified and has granted subsequent permission to land in the United States, except temporarily while under the care of a physician, or in case of an emergency, and thereafter until the departure of such seaman from the United States, or who shall refuse to detain such seaman on board the vessel after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer at the time of departure, or who shall refuse to detain such seaman for hospital treatment or observation (which hospital treatment or observation shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who shall fail to deport such seaman on board the vessel or other vessel or vehicle upon which such seaman may be ordered to be deported by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall fail to pay the cost of such detention and maintenance, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located for the use of the United States a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (b) Proof that an alien seaman did not obtain from the owning interest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States a certificate from a boarding officer, or that he was rejected by the inspector in charge of the port of arrival, shall be prima facie evidence of failure to detain such seaman on board the vessel.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, or on which he has been ordered deported, has been delayed by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor, such vessel may be refused clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, or on which he has been ordered deported, has been delayed by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor, such vessel may be refused clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

Any alien seaman who shall remain in the United States after the vessel on which he arrived has departed without the permit of the Secretary of Labor shall be deported as provided in this section, unless such seaman shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that his remaining was necessary for the emergency treatment of a sick or injured member of the vessel's crew, or was otherwise justified.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port, or that he was otherwise in the United States in violation of this section, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with the vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to comply with the regulations of the Secretary of Labor governing the movements of alien seamen while in port, and shall be prima facie evidence that such alien seaman remained in the United States in violation of law.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be cleared clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or adjacent islands, or touching at any foreign seaport for the sole purpose of taking on board fuel, supplies, or sick or injured members of the crew, and who is not otherwise subject to the provisions of the immigration laws, may be permitted to land in the United States, except for medical examination, under such rules as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the sole purpose of shipping on board the vessel upon which he arrived as a member of the crew, or for the purpose of being treated in a hospital, or for the purpose of being detained by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for the purpose of being returned on the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel.

SEC. 32. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory or adjacent islands (except Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Panama, and the Canal Zone) shall be required to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival lists containing the name of every alien on board such vessel, stating the nationality, last permanent residence, final destination, whether he has been in prison or almshouse or supported as a pauper, whether he is coming in pursuance of a previous promise, engagement, or contract for labor, whether he has a ticket through to his destination, whether he has sufficient money to land, whether he is going to join relatives or friends, and if so, what relatives or friends, whether he has been in the United States before, whether he is coming to the United States to perform labor, and if so what kind of labor, whether he is a member of the polygamic class, whether he is in possession of $50 in cash, and such other facts as may be required by the rules prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Such lists shall be prepared at such time before the departure of the vessel from the last port at which she touches before sailing for the United States as may be prescribed by the rules of the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be delivered to the boarding officer at the time of the vessel's departure from the last port at which she touches before sailing for the United States. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who refuses or neglects to deliver such lists, or who knowingly and willfully lands or permits to land any alien at any time or place other than as designated by the immigrant inspector in charge, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, for each and every such offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of any fine imposed, or which may be imposed, upon the master under this section, but clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel as a member of the crew or as a passenger, shall be taken into custody upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor and deported to the country from which he came at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this act, unless the master of the vessel on which he arrived or the owner of such vessel shall pay to the collector of customs at the port of arrival the sum of $300 for each alien seaman so illegally landed, and such sum shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be collected as provided for the collection of penalties imposed upon vessels by the navigation laws of the United States.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board the vessel on which he arrived, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board the vessel on which he arrived, or to deliver such alien seaman to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien seaman, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for such immigration officer or the master of such vessel, giving a description of such alien seaman, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired on and discharged, and of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the said lists, if required by the Secretary of Labor, but to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a fine thereof is not made as above provided; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance beyond the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid; nor shall such fine be remitted or refunded: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

(b) Fines and penalties under this section shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in the district court of the United States in which the port of arrival is located.

(c) The Secretary of Labor may remit or refund any fine or penalty, or any part thereof, imposed under this section, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem proper, and may ascertain, fix, and impose administrative fines and penalties, not inconsistent with law, for violations of the provisions of this section or of any rules or regulations made thereunder, and may remit or refund any part of such administrative fines or penalties, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem proper.

(d) Fines and penalties under this section may be recovered by proceedings against the master in any district court of the United States in which the vessel may be found or against the vessel, and clearance may be withheld or granted upon bond or deposit of sufficient security.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived and such vessel is detained beyond the time limited by section 16 of this Act, he may, upon the application of the master, cause such alien seaman to be taken before a commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival, and upon the hearing may, in his discretion, permit the master to substitute for such alien seaman any alien seaman who is a citizen of the country to which such alien seaman belongs, and who is willing to accept the wages and comply with the conditions of the vacancy on board such vessel caused by the deportation of such alien seaman, and who is acceptable to the master and the consul general, consul, or commercial agent of the country to which such alien seaman belongs, and who is admissible under the immigration laws. Such substitution shall relieve the master from the payment of the fine imposed by this section in the case of such alien seaman.

(g) Any alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in port in the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall be found by the Secretary of Labor to have remained in the United States with the consent of the Government of the country to which he belongs, and to be a member in good standing of a recognized religious denomination which is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form and prohibits its members from engaging therein, and to be incapable of earning a living except as a seaman, and to be likely to become a public charge if deported to the country to which he belongs, and to be otherwise admissible under the immigration laws. Such alien seaman shall not be refused a permit to land solely because he is destitute or because he is likely to become a public charge, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be of the opinion that he is likely to become a public charge.

(h) Any alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in port in the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall be found by the Secretary of Labor to have remained in the United States with the consent of the Government of the country to which he belongs, and to be a member in good standing of a recognized religious denomination which is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form and prohibits its members from engaging therein, and to be incapable of earning a living except as a seaman, and to be likely to become a public charge if deported to the country to which he belongs, and to be otherwise admissible under the immigration laws. Such alien seaman shall not be refused a permit to land solely because he is destitute or because he is likely to become a public charge, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be of the opinion that he is likely to become a public charge.

(i) Any alien seaman who shall desert while his vessel is in port in the United States shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall be found by the Secretary of Labor to have remained in the United States with the consent of the Government of the country to which he belongs, and to be a member in good standing of a recognized religious denomination which is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form and prohibits its members from engaging therein, and to be incapable of earning a living except as a seaman, and to be likely to become a public charge if deported to the country to which he belongs, and to be otherwise admissible under the immigration laws. Such alien seaman shall not be refused a permit to land solely because he is destitute or because he is likely to become a public charge, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be of the opinion that he is likely to become a public charge.

(j) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived and such vessel is detained beyond the time limited by section 16 of this Act, he may, upon the application of the master, cause such alien seaman to be taken before a commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival, and upon the hearing may, in his discretion, permit the master to substitute for such alien seaman any alien seaman who is a citizen of the country to which such alien seaman belongs, and who is willing to accept the wages and comply with the conditions of the vacancy on board such vessel caused by the deportation of such alien seaman, and who is acceptable to the master and the consul general, consul, or commercial agent of the country to which such alien seaman belongs, and who is admissible under the immigration laws. Such substitution shall relieve the master from the payment of the fine imposed by this section in the case of such alien seaman.

Any seaman employed on board any vessel in violation of this section shall be taken on board such vessel by the master thereof before such vessel departs from any port of the United States, and such master shall pay to each such seaman the wages earned by him to the time of such taking on board, and in addition thereto a sum equal to such wages for one month. Such master shall also be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each and every violation hereof, to be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor, upon the recommendation of the immigration officer in charge of the port at which such seaman was landed. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel violating this section.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except foreign contiguous territory) shall cause each seaman employed on board thereof (other than a master, officer, member of the crew, or cabin passenger) to be examined before such seaman (after inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to such date prior to departure as the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival may designate, by an immigration officer or the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service detailed for such purpose, and such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall pay to the collector of customs or the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman so examined, and such further sum as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor to be charged with the cost of the services of the immigration officers and medical officers for the additional time required to perform such examination, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the inability to perform such service. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pursuant to the provisions of this section while any seaman employed thereon who was required to be examined hereunder remains on board.

(b) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port and who fails to report on board his vessel at the time of its departure from port, unless such failure is satisfactorily explained to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port, shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(c) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave and who fails to report on board his vessel at the time of its departure from any port, unless such failure is satisfactorily explained to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port, shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor shall have reason to believe that any alien seaman on board any vessel in the United States is a member of any class of aliens who may be excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, or is afflicted with any contagious disease, he may, in his discretion, order a physician designated by him to make a careful examination of such alien seaman, and if upon such examination such alien seaman is found to be afflicted with any such disease or to be a member of any such class of aliens, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens found unlawfully in the United States. The cost of such examination shall be paid out of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section.

(f) Every alien seaman who shall desert while in the United States shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port at which such desertion occurs shall satisfactorily account for the failure of such seaman to be on board when the vessel is ready to proceed to sea. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer who shall refuse or neglect to report, or who shall conceal, or who shall aid, abet, or assist any such seaman in deserting or concealing himself on board vessel or elsewhere in the United States, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each and every such offense, to be sued for and recovered by the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction, and such seaman shall be arrested and delivered on board such vessel or any vessel bound to the same port, or to any other vessel which will carry him to such port, at the discretion of the master of the vessel first mentioned, and the cost of such arrest and delivery shall be collected in the same manner as the fine herein provided for. Every master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer who shall refuse or neglect to detain any such seaman when ordered so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall permit any such seaman to land in the United States contrary to the provisions of this section, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each and every such offense, to be sued for and recovered by the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction, and such seaman shall be arrested and delivered on board such vessel or any vessel bound to the same port, or to any other vessel which will carry him to such port, at the discretion of the master of the vessel first mentioned, and the cost of such arrest and delivery shall be collected in the same manner as the fine herein provided for. Such seaman shall be held on board such vessel after her departure from port until she arrives at her destination, and shall be delivered to the master thereof by the officer having him in charge. SEC. 41. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the allotment of such seaman's wages, or in case of the substitution for such seaman of another seaman who has been duly shipped and has been found by the Secretary of Labor to be likely to become a public charge, or in case of the inability of such seaman to proceed to sea with the vessel on account of illness certified by the medical officer of the United States immigration service at the port of arrival, or for other reasons deemed sufficient by the Secretary of Labor, or unless he is in possession of a valid passport viséed by an American consular officer. Any seaman employed on board any vessel in violation of this section shall be taken on board such vessel by the master thereof before such vessel departs from any port of the United States, and such master shall pay to each such seaman the wages earned by him to the time of such taking on board, and in addition thereto a sum equal to such wages for one month. Such master shall also be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each and every violation hereof, to be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor, upon the recommendation of the immigration officer in charge of the port at which such seaman was landed. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel violating this section.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except foreign contiguous territory) shall cause each seaman employed on board thereof (other than a master, officer, member of the crew, or cabin passenger) to be examined before such seaman (after inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or to such date prior to departure as the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival may designate, by an immigration officer or the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service detailed for such purpose, and such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall pay to the collector of customs or the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman so examined, and such further sum as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor to be charged with the cost of the services of the immigration officers and medical officers for the additional time required to perform such examination, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the inability to perform such service. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pursuant to the provisions of this section while any seaman employed thereon who was required to be examined hereunder remains on board.

(b) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave while his vessel was in port and who fails to report on board his vessel at the time of its departure from port, unless such failure is satisfactorily explained to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port, shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(c) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave and who fails to report on board his vessel at the time of its departure from any port, unless such failure is satisfactorily explained to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port, shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(d) Every alien seaman who has been granted shore leave and who fails to report on board his vessel at the time of its departure from any port, unless such failure is satisfactorily explained to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port, shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor shall have reason to believe that any seaman on board any vessel in the United States is a member of any class of aliens who may be excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, or is afflicted with any contagious disease, he may, in his discretion, order a physician designated by him to make a careful examination of such alien seaman, and if upon such examination such alien seaman is found to be afflicted with any such disease or to be a member of any such class of aliens, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens found unlawfully in the United States. The cost of such examination shall be paid out of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section. Such deportation shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(f) Every alien seaman who shall desert while in the United States shall be deported at the cost of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer in charge of the port at which such desertion occurs shall satisfactorily account for the failure of such seaman to be on board when the vessel is ready to proceed to sea. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer who shall refuse or neglect to report, or who shall conceal, or who shall aid, abet, or assist any such seaman in deserting or concealing himself on board vessel or elsewhere in the United States, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each and every such offense, to be sued for and recovered by the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction, and such seaman shall be arrested and delivered on board such vessel or any vessel bound to the same port, or to any other vessel which will carry him to such port, at the discretion of the master of the vessel first mentioned, and the cost of such arrest and delivery shall be collected in the same manner as the fine herein provided for. Such seaman shall be held on board such vessel after her departure from port until she arrives at her destination, and shall be delivered to the master thereof by the officer having him in charge. If such vessel shall be wrecked before reaching her destination, such seaman shall be returned to the United States by the first vessel sailing therefrom for a port in the United States, and the cost of his maintenance and transportation shall be collected from the master of the vessel first mentioned.

(g) If the Secretary of Labor shall have reason to believe that any seaman on board any vessel in the United States intends to land unlawfully in the United States, or that he belongs to any class of aliens who may be excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws, he may, in his discretion, order such seaman detained on board such vessel until the vessel is ready to proceed to sea, and may cause a guard to be placed over such seaman to prevent his landing. Every master, owner, agent, consignee, or customs officer who shall refuse or neglect to detain any such seaman when ordered so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall permit any such seaman to land in the United States contrary to the provisions of this section, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each and every such offense, to be sued for and recovered by the United States in any court of competent jurisdiction, and such seaman shall be arrested and delivered on board such vessel or any vessel bound to the same port, or to any other vessel which will carry him to such port, at the discretion of the master of the vessel first mentioned, and the cost of such arrest and delivery shall be collected in the same manner as the fine herein provided for. Such seaman shall be held on board such vessel after her departure from port until she arrives at her destination, and shall be delivered to the master thereof by the officer having him in charge. If such vessel shall be wrecked before reaching her destination, such seaman shall be returned to the United States by the first vessel sailing therefrom for a port in the United States, and the cost of his maintenance and transportation shall be collected from the master of the vessel first mentioned.

(a) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, steamship company, or corporation bringing an alien to any port of the United States from any place outside the United States, who shall violate any of the provisions of section 36 of this act, or any rule or regulation made by the Secretary of Labor thereunder, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each offense. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such liability upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien arriving at the ports of the United States, whether entering the United States from the Dominion of Canada or from Mexico, shall be examined by the immigrant inspectors at the time of his arrival and may be excluded from admission to the United States unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he does not belong to one of the classes of aliens excluded by the provisions of this act. The decision of the immigrant inspectors, subject to such review as may be provided by the Secretary of Labor, shall be final as to rejection of such aliens.

(c) Any alien who shall enter or attempt to enter the United States in violation of this act shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who become public charges within two years after their entry into the United States from causes existing prior to their entry.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment on account of injury or illness, or because of being detained by the quarantine authorities as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe for the enforcement of the medical provisions of the immigration laws, or pursuant to such regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, but any such alien seaman may be required to give a bond in the sum of $500 conditioned upon his departure to a foreign port within the period for which he was admitted, and upon the performance by him of the conditions of his bond.

SEC. 20. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall bring to the United States any alien seaman who has been refused a landing by the immigration officers, or any alien seaman who has been ordered deported under any provision of this Act, shall be required to remove such alien seaman from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on the vessel on which he is ordered deported, or on such other vessel as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, unless security is furnished to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that such alien seaman will not become a public charge, and the cost of removal of such alien seaman from the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on the vessel on which he is ordered deported shall be borne by the owner of such vessel. Pending the departure of such alien seaman from the United States, the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States shall be responsible for the detention on board the vessel of such alien seaman, and such detention shall be at the expense of the vessel. Any master who refuses to detain any such alien seaman on board his vessel after notice and demand by the Secretary of Labor, or who refuses to receive on board his vessel any such alien seaman for the purpose of detaining him in custody on board such vessel, or who refuses to detain any such alien seaman on board his vessel after notice and demand by the Secretary of Labor, or who refuses to take any such alien seaman on board his vessel for the purpose of removing him from the United States, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman shall not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrives in the United States unless there has been compliance with the provisions of this section, but the master of any vessel may bring on shore any alien seaman for the purpose of obtaining his certificate of identification and his landing certificate, and may return to the vessel with any alien seaman who has been ordered deported.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will be unduly delayed by the refusal of any consul to issue a passport to such alien seaman, he may, in his discretion, grant to such alien seaman a permit to proceed to any foreign port specified in such permit and return to the United States within the period for which he was admitted.

SEC. 21. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien (except an alien crewman) who is destined to or intends to land in the United States, shall cause such alien to be examined by a United States medical officer at the port or place of embarkation, and no such alien shall be admitted to the United States unless the immigration officer at the port of arrival shall be satisfied that such alien is not excluded from admission by any of the provisions of section 3 of this Act, and that such alien is in possession of a valid immigration visa and passport, if required by section 2 of this Act, and that such alien is not excluded from admission by any of the provisions of section 2 of this Act. Any such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien seaman shall not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrives in the United States unless there has been compliance with the provisions of this section, but the master of any vessel may bring on shore any alien seaman for the purpose of obtaining his certificate of identification and his landing certificate, and may return to the vessel with any alien seaman who has been ordered deported.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrives in the United States will be unduly delayed by the refusal of any consul to issue a passport to such alien seaman, he may, in his discretion, grant to such alien seaman a permit to proceed to any foreign port specified in such permit and return to the United States within the period for which he was admitted.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 11. (a) No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from a place outside the continental territory of the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine, or because of any cause found by the Secretary of Labor to be beyond the control of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel, or for the purpose of applying for a visa and examination by a consular officer, and in such cases shall be detained on board or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor as to the right of the alien to land. Such aliens shall be subject to such tax, to be paid to the collector of customs, and to such rules and regulations, including the giving of bond, as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to obtain a certificate from the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who shall fail to present such certificate to the immigration officer at the port of departure, shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, and shall be deported on the vessel on which he arrived, or on the vessel on which he shall next depart for the port from which he arrived, or on any vessel on which he can secure passage, in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, but shall not be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, unless in the judgment of the Secretary of Labor such vessel was at fault. (b) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any alien seaman has been deported by the master or such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of section 2 of the Act of March 4, 1915, as amended by section 10 of the Act of May 10, 1920, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(c) Aliens found to be illegally in the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, to the country whence they came, or, if that be impossible or impracticable or inconvenient, to the country of which they are subjects or citizens or nationals, or to any country which may be willing to receive them. All aliens deported under the provisions of this section who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. All aliens deported under the provisions of this section who entered the United States subsequent to July 1, 1924, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Coast Guard. Any alien who shall be deported under the provisions of this section shall be ineligible to receive any visa and shall not be admitted to the United States unless he shall have first obtained permission to reapply for admission to the United States from the Secretary of Labor. Prior to the deportation of any such alien who is in custody, either because he has not been granted a hearing by the immigration officials or because a hearing has been had and he has been taken into custody pursuant to the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, the case of each such alien shall be reviewed by a board of review, which shall be composed of not less than three immigrant inspectors, and unless the board shall unanimously recommend deportation the alien shall not be deported. Any alien arrested and deported in pursuance of the provisions of this section shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who entered in violation of the immigration laws, so far as may be applicable.

(d) Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien to any port of the United States shall be responsible for the proper care of such alien while on board such vessel, and for his maintenance while a detained immigrant at the port of arrival, and for the payment of the cost of his detention and of his passage to the country whence he came, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen or national, or to any country which may be willing to receive him, and for the payment of the head tax and the immigrant's passage to the place of his ultimate destination, if destined to a country contiguous to the United States, Cuba, Mexico, Newfoundland, or adjacent islands. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any alien deported by the master or such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a violation of section 2 of the Act of March 4, 1915, as amended by section 10 of the Act of May 10, 1920, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(f) If the master or commanding officer of any vessel willfully fails or refuses to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a list containing the name of every alien employed on board such vessel, or willfully fails or refuses to deliver such list at the time of departure of such vessel from the last port in the United States, or willfully fails or refuses to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of departure a list containing the name of every alien employed on board such vessel at the time of departure, or willfully fails or refuses to report the name of any alien who shall have been left behind, or willfully reports the name of any alien who shall have been left behind who has in fact departed, or willfully fails or refuses to report the name of any alien who has departed, or willfully reports the name of any alien who has not departed, or willfully fails or refuses to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a correct list of the aliens employed on board such vessel, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such correct list was not delivered, or reported, or departed, or not departed, as the case may be, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 38. (a) The master, captain, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel sailing in the United States from any place outside thereof shall not permit any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine) to land in the United States, except for the purpose of applying for a visa and examination by a consular officer in charge at the port of arrival, and it shall be the duty of such master, captain, agent, consignee, or owner to report to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival the name of every such alien seaman employed on board the vessel, and the intended length of his stay in the United States, and to deliver to such immigration officer at the time of the arrival of the vessel at each port a complete list of all such alien seamen employed on board the vessel, specifying the nationality, last permanent residence, and destination of each, and the manifest of the vessel shall show the information required by this section. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to obtain a certificate from the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who shall fail to present such certificate to the immigration officer at the port of departure, shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of alien seamen who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, and who shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. All aliens deported under the provisions of this section who entered the United States subsequent to July 1, 1924, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Coast Guard. Any alien who shall be deported under the provisions of this section shall be ineligible to receive any visa and shall not be admitted to the United States unless he shall have first obtained permission to reapply for admission to the United States from the Secretary of Labor. Prior to the deportation of any such alien who is in custody, either because he has not been granted a hearing by the immigration officials or because a hearing has been had and he has been taken into custody pursuant to the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, the case of each such alien shall be reviewed by a board of review, which shall be composed of not less than three immigrant inspectors, and unless the board shall unanimously recommend deportation the alien shall not be deported. Any alien arrested and deported in pursuance of the provisions of this section shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who entered in violation of the immigration laws, so far as may be applicable.

(b) Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien to any port of the United States shall be responsible for the proper care of such alien while on board such vessel, and for his maintenance while a detained immigrant at the port of arrival, and for the payment of the cost of his detention and of his passage to the country whence he came, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen or national, or to any country which may be willing to receive him, and for the payment of the head tax and the immigrant's passage to the place of his ultimate destination, if destined to a country contiguous to the United States, Cuba, Mexico, Newfoundland, or adjacent islands. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(c) Aliens found to be illegally in the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of the Act of February 5, 1917, to the country whence they came, or, if that be impossible or impracticable or inconvenient, to the country of which they are subjects or citizens or nationals, or to any country which may be willing to receive them. All aliens deported under the provisions of this section who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. All aliens deported under the provisions of this section who entered the United States subsequent to July 1, 1924, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the expenses of the Coast Guard. Any alien who shall be deported under the provisions of this section shall be ineligible to receive any visa and shall not be admitted to the United States unless he shall have first obtained permission to reapply for admission to the United States from the Secretary of Labor. Prior to the deportation of any such alien who is in custody, either because he has not been granted a hearing by the immigration officials or because a hearing has been had and he has been taken into custody pursuant to the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, the case of each such alien shall be reviewed by a board of review, which shall be composed of not less than three immigrant inspectors, and unless the board shall unanimously recommend deportation the alien shall not be deported. Any alien arrested and deported in pursuance of the provisions of this section shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who entered in violation of the immigration laws, so far as may be applicable.

(d) Every master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel bringing an alien to any port of the United States shall be responsible for the proper care of such alien while on board such vessel, and for his maintenance while a detained immigrant at the port of arrival, and for the payment of the cost of his detention and of his passage to the country whence he came, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen or national, or to any country which may be willing to receive him, and for the payment of the head tax and the immigrant's passage to the place of his ultimate destination, if destined to a country contiguous to the United States, Cuba, Mexico, Newfoundland, or adjacent islands. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty or distress necessitating such landing, or by reason of the certification of such alien seaman as a substitute for the purpose of replacing a seaman who has deserted from a vessel in the United States or who has been left behind by reason of illness, injury, or detention by the immigration authorities, or who is necessary for the navigation of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or on account of any other circumstances arising after the departure of the vessel from the United States which are determined by the Secretary of Labor to be sufficient to warrant the granting of such permission. The Secretary of Labor shall prescribe rules and regulations governing the admission of aliens seamen under this section. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to depart therefrom with the vessel on which he arrived or on the vessel on which he shall subsequently ship, or on some other vessel sailing within a reasonable time to the same foreign port from which such vessel arrived, or who shall fail to comply with such rules and regulations, shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily in the United States as provided in this section and who shall remain therein for a period longer than five days shall be considered for the purposes of this Act as having been admitted to the United States and shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

SEC. 28. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien (except an alien described in section 3 (b) hereof) who is destined to a place outside the United States, shall, if such alien has been refused a visa by the Secretary of Labor or by a diplomatic or consular officer, pay the cost of returning such alien to the port from which he came to the United States, or to the country to which he belongs, or to the country in which he resided before coming to the United States, at the option of the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel. Such cost shall be the same as that charged for the transportation of such alien from the United States to the port to which he is to be returned, and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Such alien shall be returned on the vessel bringing him to the United States unless the Secretary of Labor shall direct that he be returned on another vessel at the cost of the owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel bringing him to the United States. Pending the return of such alien he shall be detained on board the vessel bringing him to the United States or, at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, in such manner as he may direct. Such alien shall not be admitted to the United States by any immigration officer at any port of entry, and no vessel shall be granted clearance papers while such alien remains in the United States in violation of this section, except that the Secretary of Labor may grant clearance papers to the vessel upon the deposit of sufficient security to insure the return of such alien to the port to which he is to be returned.

(b) Any person, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(c) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to depart therefrom with the vessel on which he arrived or on the vessel on which he shall subsequently ship, or on some other vessel sailing within a reasonable time to the same foreign port from which such vessel arrived, or who shall fail to comply with such rules and regulations, shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of any alien seaman on any vessel at any entrance to the United States will result in undue loss to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, he may grant such alien a temporary permit to land during the period such vessel is in port, upon the giving of a suitable bond for the deportation of such alien when required by the Secretary of Labor. Such bond shall be in such amount as the Secretary of Labor may require, not exceeding $1,000, and shall be conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman on such vessel or some other vessel sailing within a reasonable time to the same foreign port from which such vessel arrived, or to such other foreign port as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, and upon the payment of the hospital expenses and burial expenses of such alien seaman in case he shall die while in the United States. Such permit may be revoked by the Secretary of Labor and the alien seaman taken on board the vessel at any time before the departure of such vessel from the port. Such alien seaman may be granted parole from the vessel for hospital treatment, under guard if deemed necessary, but not in any case for a longer period than the vessel remains in port. Such alien seaman may be granted parole from the vessel for other good cause, but not for a longer period than the vessel remains in port, except that in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor such alien seaman may be granted a parole for a longer period for the purpose of obtaining treatment for tuberculosis, which cannot be obtained on board the vessel, but shall be deducted from the amount of the bond. Such alien seaman shall not be granted parole unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived shall deposit with the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a sum sufficient to cover the cost of returning such alien seaman to the country to which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived agrees to return him, such cost to be the same as that charged for the transportation of such alien seaman from the United States to the port to which he is to be returned, and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Such alien shall be returned on the vessel bringing him to the United States unless the Secretary of Labor shall direct that he be returned on another vessel at the cost of the owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived, but such cost shall not be charged to the vessel as an expense and shall not be a bar to the granting of clearance papers to such vessel.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the sixth company, view and where they were respectively shipped to engage, and specifying those to be held on board the vessel for the return voyage or to be detained for examination or hearing, and the names of those who have been treated in hospitals, and the names of those who have died on board during the voyage, and the intended destination of each alien then on board the vessel, stating a description of such alien, together with the information likely to lead to his apprehension; and illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with the information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all aliens employed who were not employed at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the time of her departure, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired who have subsequently left the vessel; and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of every such vessel shall deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a like list containing the names of all aliens employed on board such vessel at the time of her departure from a foreign port or place, and specifying those who have been refused a visa by the Secretary of Labor or by a diplomatic or consular officer, and the names of those who have died on board during the voyage, and the intended destination of each alien then on board the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with the information likely to lead to his apprehension; and illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien seaman employed on such vessel since the arrival at the previous port, or if there be but one port of call in the United States, since the departure from the foreign port, and the cause for his discharge, and the destination of each alien seaman on board such vessel at the time of her departure from the United States, which lists shall be subscribed and sworn to before the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by the first officer thereof, in all cases where the master is absent from the port of arrival, and shall include a personal physical examination (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), to the end that all aliens seamen on board such vessel may be accounted for by the immigration officers at the port of arrival and inspected such seamen on board such vessel before the departure of such vessel from such port. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel who shall refuse to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(f) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to depart therefrom with the vessel on which he arrived or on the vessel on which he shall subsequently ship, or on some other vessel sailing within a reasonable time to the same foreign port from which such vessel arrived, or who shall fail to comply with such rules and regulations, shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

(g) If the Secretary of Labor finds that deportation of any alien seaman on any vessel at any entrance to the United States will result in undue loss to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, he may grant such alien a temporary permit to land during the period such vessel is in port, upon the giving of a suitable bond for the deportation of such alien when required by the Secretary of Labor. Such bond shall be in such amount as the Secretary of Labor may require, not exceeding $1,000, and shall be conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman on such vessel or some other vessel sailing within a reasonable time to the same foreign port from which such vessel arrived, or to such other foreign port as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, and upon the payment of the hospital expenses and burial expenses of such alien seaman in case he shall die while in the United States. Such permit may be revoked by the Secretary of Labor and the alien seaman taken on board the vessel at any time before the departure of such vessel from the port. Such alien seaman may be granted parole from the vessel for hospital treatment, under guard if deemed necessary, but not in any case for a longer period than the vessel remains in port. Such alien seaman may be granted parole from the vessel for other good cause, but not for a longer period than the vessel remains in port, except that in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor such alien seaman may be granted a parole for a longer period for the purpose of obtaining treatment for tuberculosis, which cannot be obtained on board the vessel, but shall be deducted from the amount of the bond. Such alien seaman shall not be granted parole unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived shall deposit with the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a sum sufficient to cover the cost of returning such alien seaman to the country to which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived agrees to return him, such cost to be the same as that charged for the transportation of such alien seaman from the United States to the port to which he is to be returned, and shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Such alien shall be returned on the vessel bringing him to the United States unless the Secretary of Labor shall direct that he be returned on another vessel at the cost of the owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel, but such cost shall not be charged to the vessel as an expense and shall not be a bar to the granting of clearance papers to such vessel.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 41. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary illness as may render his removal from the United States unsafe, or unless specially certified by the Secretary of Labor from a place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States from any vessel arriving in the United States at the port of such seaman's arrival, and every such seaman shall be detained on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port shall have determined whether or not he belongs to one of the classes of aliens who may be admitted to the United States, and pending such determination and for such time thereafter as may be necessary for the removal of such seaman if he is determined to belong to one of the classes of aliens who may be excluded, such seaman shall be kept on board the vessel on which he arrived or on board such other vessel or vessels as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge at the port, and shall not be entitled to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of some other reason specified in this section, or in order to be detained specially upon the certificate in writing of the Secretary of Labor that his testimony is necessary in the case of some alien seeking to enter the United States, or in order to be sent back to the country to which such seaman belongs, or to the country from which such alien embarked as an immigrant. Any such seaman who has been certified by the Secretary of Labor to be detained as a witness in connection with the trial of any such alien shall be paid as witness fees the witness fees provided for witnesses in the courts of the United States, and shall be furnished with such maintenance and transportation while detained as the Secretary of Labor shall direct. Any such seaman who refuses to be detained on board the vessel on which he arrived, or to be sent back to the country to which such seaman belongs, or to the country from which such alien embarked as an immigrant, or who refuses to land in the United States when ordered by the Secretary of Labor so to do, or who, after having been granted shore leave by the immigration officer in charge at the port, fails to return to the vessel on which he arrived before such vessel departs from the port, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question whether any seaman is required as a witness, or specially detained by the Secretary of Labor, or while any seaman is detained on board thereof, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit by the master of such vessel with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such case, or to a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, in such penal sum as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned for the return of such seaman to the vessel or for the payment of such sum as may be imposed upon such seaman by the Secretary of Labor. Every alien seaman who shall depart from the United States during the period for which he was granted shore leave, and every seaman who shall fail to return to the vessel on which he arrived within the period for which he was granted shore leave, or within the period for which he shipped, shall be deemed to have violated the provisions of this section, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that his failure to return was occasioned by illness, shipwreck, or other cause beyond his control. Penalties provided for violations of this section may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall come to the United States in violation of law, or who, coming lawfully, shall remain beyond the period for which he was granted shore leave, and every seaman who shall come to the United States and who shall not depart therefrom with the vessel on which he arrived, or within such period as may be granted by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 19 of the Act of February 5, 1917, and shall be taken from the vessel or other conveyance on which he arrives, or may be apprehended, at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, and shall be deported to the country in which he was born or in which he resided before coming to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the provisions of the immigration laws, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be of opinion that the cost of such deportation should be borne wholly or in part by the owners of the vessel on which such alien arrived, in which case the cost of such deportation may be charged against any moneys which may be due or become due to such owners, or may be recovered from such owners in any proper suit. For the purpose of this section the Secretary of Labor may employ such agents as he shall think fit, and may direct the payment of such compensation and expenses as he may think proper out of any moneys appropriated for the enforcement of the immigration laws.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall be of opinion that any seaman has been unlawfully employed on board any vessel, or has deserted such vessel, or has refused to proceed on the voyage after the cargo of such vessel was specified and the vessel was ready to proceed on the voyage, or has been guilty of misconduct, such as to render it proper in the interests of discipline that he should be compelled to leave the vessel, and the master of such vessel shall have reported the case to the immigration officer at the port at which such seaman is discharged, and such seaman shall have been ordered by such immigration officer to appear before the Secretary of Labor for examination, such seaman shall not be granted clearance until such examination has been held or his detainment enforced by the master of such vessel refused, unless the master shall deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient in the opinion of such immigration officer to defray the cost of such seaman's maintenance and passage to the port at which he was originally shipped, or to the port at which the vessel on which he arrived is next due to touch, or to the port to which such vessel is bound, and such immigration officer shall certify the sum so deposited to the collector of customs, and the same shall be held by the collector of customs to meet the charges aforesaid, and shall be applied to the purpose for which it was deposited, or repaid to the master who deposited it, according to the certificate of such immigration officer. Every seaman who deserts or refuses to proceed on the voyage after the cargo of such vessel is specified and the vessel ready to proceed on the voyage, or who is guilty of misconduct, such as to render it proper in the interests of discipline that he should be compelled to leave the vessel, shall forfeit to the United States all money and effects left by him on board such vessel, and shall be liable to a penalty of $50 and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, and shall be incapable of demanding or receiving any wages which may be due to him at the time of his desertion or refusal to proceed on the voyage, or misconduct aforesaid.

SEC. 42. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any alien who is afflicted with any of the mental or physical defects or disabilities set forth in section 3 of this Act, or any alien who has been excluded from admission to the United States and is not subject to treatment in transit, or any alien who has arrived at a port of the United States by means of fraudulent documentation, or who lacks documentation required by this Act, shall be required to take back to the place from which they respectively came, or to any place in foreign contiguous territory or adjacent islands which may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, such alien, and the cost of the maintenance while in the United States and of the transportation of such alien shall be paid by the owner of the vessel on which such alien arrived. Any such alien shall be detained on board or at such place in the United States as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge pending such removal, and the cost of such detention shall be paid by the owner of the vessel on which such alien arrived. If any such alien is afflicted with any such defect or disability at the time of his entry, or if it was by reason of the existence of any such defect or disability at the time of his entry that he was excluded, or if any such alien arrived without documentation required by this Act, the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such alien arrived shall be liable to a penalty of $200 for each such alien, and in addition shall be liable to a penalty of $200 for each month that such alien remains in the United States after his arrival, such penalty to be recovered by action in any court of the United States. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question whether any such penalty is incurred, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance while detained on account of the failure to comply with any requirement of this section, but the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, remit any penalty incurred under this section.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall come to the United States and who shall not depart therefrom with the vessel on which he arrived, or within such period as may be granted by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 19 of the Act of February 5, 1917, and shall be taken from the vessel or other conveyance on which he arrives, or may be apprehended, at such time and in such manner as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, and shall be deported to the country in which he was born or in which he resided before coming to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the provisions of the immigration laws, unless the Secretary of Labor shall be of opinion that the cost of such deportation should be borne wholly or in part by the owners of the vessel on which such alien arrived, in which case the cost of such deportation may be charged against any moneys which may be due or become due to such owners, or may be recovered from such owners in any proper suit. For the purpose of this section the Secretary of Labor may employ such agents as he shall think fit, and may direct the payment of such compensation and expenses as he may think proper out of any moneys appropriated for the enforcement of the immigration laws.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall be of opinion that any seaman has been unlawfully employed on board any vessel, or has deserted such vessel, or has refused to proceed on the voyage after the cargo of such vessel was specified and the vessel was ready to proceed on the voyage, or has been guilty of misconduct, such as to render it proper in the interests of discipline that he should be compelled to leave the vessel, and the master of such vessel shall have reported the case to the immigration officer at the port at which such seaman is discharged, and such seaman shall have been ordered by such immigration officer to appear before the Secretary of Labor for examination, such seaman shall not be granted clearance until such expenses have been paid or his detainment enforced by the master of such vessel refused, unless the master shall deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient in the opinion of such immigration officer to defray the cost of such seaman's maintenance and passage to the port at which he was originally shipped, or to the port at which the vessel on which he arrived is next due to touch, or to the port to which such vessel is bound, and such immigration officer shall certify the sum so deposited to the collector of customs, and the same shall be held by the collector of customs to meet the charges aforesaid, and shall be applied to the purpose for which it was deposited, or repaid to the master who deposited it, according to the certificate of such immigration officer. Every seaman who deserts or refuses to proceed on the voyage after the cargo of such vessel is specified and the vessel ready to proceed on the voyage, or who is guilty of misconduct, such as to render it proper in the interests of discipline that he should be compelled to leave the vessel, shall forfeit to the United States all money and effects left by him on board such vessel, and shall be liable to a penalty of $50 and to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, and shall be incapable of demanding or receiving any wages which may be due to him at the time of his desertion or refusal to proceed on the voyage, or misconduct aforesaid.

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms supplied by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and in the case of failure to furnish such list the master of the vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct list was not delivered to a duly authorized immigration officer as the case may be: Provided, That clearance papers of every such vessel shall be withheld until such list be delivered or satisfactorily accounted for to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and the master of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien not specified in such list, unless such alien shall have been specially exempted from the operation of the immigration laws or shall be a member of the crew of such vessel and intends to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within twenty-four hours after the departure of such vessel from the port: Provided further, That the list of aliens to be delivered by the master of each vessel as required by this section shall be prepared in quintuplicate, and the blanks furnished therefor by the Department of Labor shall be uniform in such manner and form as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and shall contain such information as may be required by the Department of Labor touching the right of aliens to admission to the United States: And provided further, That the master of each vessel shall subscribe and deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a list or manifest of all aliens employed on board the vessel in any capacity, and of the names of all aliens, if any, who may have been taken on board while such vessel was in port, and of the reasons for employing such aliens, which list or manifest shall be certified and sworn to before the immigration officer at the port of arrival by the master of the vessel or the first officer and by the surgeon, if there be one, touching the matters and things required of them in relation thereto.

SEC. 36. That every person, including those in transit, coming into the United States from the island possessions thereof, or from the Panama Canal Zone, or from any place in the United States and destined to any island possession thereof, or to the Panama Canal Zone, shall be subject to the provisions of this Act relating to aliens coming into the United States from foreign contiguous territory. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to require the removal of any alien from one island possession to another island possession, or from the Canal Zone to any island possession, or from any island possession to the Canal Zone, or from the United States to any island possession or to the Canal Zone, or from the Canal Zone to the United States, but such removal shall be subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the head of the department having jurisdiction over the island possession or the Canal Zone to which the alien is destined: Provided, That the provisions of section 19 of this Act shall apply to any alien who shall come in violation of law to the United States from any island possession or the Canal Zone.

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who shall fail to detain on board the vessel such alien immigrant specially examined by the medical examiner, unless a permit shall have been granted for the landing of such alien, or who shall land or permit to be landed any alien immigrant at any port or place in the United States except as provided by the immigration laws and the rules made in pursuance thereof, or who shall refuse to return on board, when required so to do by the immigrant inspector in charge, any alien immigrant who has been duly certified by the medical examiner as helpless from sickness, mental or physical defect, or infectious disease, likely to become a public charge, or who has been certified by the medical examiner as a person afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each and every such alien so landed or permitted to land, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and may be arrested either upon warrant or without warrant by any officer of the United States authorized to make arrests for crimes against the United States. The decision of the medical officer in charge of the port as to the existence of a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease shall be final and conclusive.

(b) Any person who shall bring into the United States any alien not duly certified for admission by an immigrant inspector, or who shall bring into the United States any alien who has been certified by the medical examiner as helpless from sickness, mental or physical defect, or infectious disease, likely to become a public charge, or who has been certified by the medical examiner as a person afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each and every such alien so brought in, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court, but no person shall be convicted under this subdivision unless he shall have had actual knowledge at the time of the commission of the offense that the alien in question belonged to one of the classes of persons excluded from admission to the United States or that he was afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall not be satisfied by the master of any vessel or by the owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof that any alien brought to the United States by such vessel was not afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease or mental or physical defect or disorder at the time of foreign departure or entry, which would be ground for debarring such alien from admission to the United States, and which could not have been detected by the use of all reasonable appliances and means at the time of such departure or entry, he may require such vessel to be detained at the port of arrival for a period not exceeding four days after the Secretary of Labor shall have been informed of the presence of such alien, during which period of detention such alien shall be subject to such medical examination as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. If upon the completion of the medical examination of such alien he shall not be certified to be afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease or mental or physical defect or disorder, he shall be permitted to land if he is found to be clear of all other disease, mental defect, and other cause for exclusion provided by this Act. The cost of such detention and medical examination shall be borne by the master of the vessel on which such alien arrived. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention in a hospital of any alien who arrives on a vessel which sails regularly between ports in the United States and foreign contiguous territory, or between ports in the United States and adjacent islands, unless the Secretary of Labor shall have reason to believe that such alien has a contagious disease which would endanger the public health.

(d) Every alien who shall be certified for special inquiry under the provisions of this section shall be detained on board or at such station as may be designated by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, and shall not be allowed to land in the United States except temporarily for the purpose of examination before a special board of inquiry or pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor on appeal, unless admitted on bond or such other conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, in such sum and with such security as the Secretary of Labor may require, conditioned upon the production of such alien to the Secretary of Labor when required for deportation, or upon the payment of the head tax and the penalty prescribed by this Act in the case of such alien if he shall not be found upon arrival at any subsequent port in the United States, or upon the departure of such alien from the United States within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, or upon the payment of such head tax and such penalty by the master of the vessel or transportation company by which such alien shall have been brought to the United States. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be duly certified by an immigrant inspector at the expiration of the period for which the bond was given, or who shall depart from the United States through the port of arrival or through such other port as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall be excluded by a special board of inquiry and shall depart from the United States within such period as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor on appeal. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor or his duly authorized agent to be a bona fide applicant for admission to a college, academy, seminary, or public school in the United States, who shall attend such institution of learning for the period or periods of time certified, and who shall depart from the United States upon the completion of such period or periods of attendance in the manner provided in this section for the departure of students. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be a bona fide visitor for pleasure, who shall depart from the United States within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, and who shall furnish such security as may be required by the Secretary of Labor to insure compliance with the conditions of the bond. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be in transit through the United States, who shall have in his possession the means and intention to proceed immediately to a country adjacent to the United States, and who shall depart from the United States within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be entitled to enter the United States solely in pursuance of a treaty between the United States and a foreign state, and who shall depart from the United States within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be a seaman entitled to land temporarily and solely in pursuance of such privileges as may be granted him by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived, and who shall depart from the United States on such vessel or some other vessel within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be a bona fide alien member of the crew of a vessel arriving at such port, and who shall depart from the United States on such vessel or some other vessel within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be in possession of a valid passport issued by the government of the country of which he claims nationality, and to be destined to a specified country, which shall specifically appear in such certification, and who shall depart from the United States for such country within such period as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor. Such bonds shall be void as to any alien who shall be certified by the Secretary of Labor to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival to be in possession of a nonimmigration visa properly issued by an American consular officer, and who shall depart from the United States
